

CURRENT COMMENT
By
Chester H. Rowell

THE eighth anniversary of prohibition has brought the usual flood of discussion. Such discussion is useful, provided it is intelligent, and it is intelligent if it is about something which can be done.

Therefore, to start with, leave out all of the following things, none of which can be done: Do not propose to repeal the prohibition law, not to make any modification of it which is important enough to interest anybody. Do not advocate a wine and beer law; a definition of "intoxicating" that would include anything with a "kick"; the leaving of the definition to the states, nor the Canadian system of government distribution. Having resolvedly excluded all these plans from your consideration, you are left with the discussion—provided you can find anything else to discuss.

IT IS not a question whether these proposals are desirable or undesirable. What difference does it make whether a thing would be good or bad, if it is also impossible? Nobody is debating whether a perpetual motion machine, or a railroad to the moon, would be beneficial or injurious to humanity. Since they are impossible, the question of their desirability becomes meaningless. It is the same with the repeal or serious modification of the prohibition law. There are those who favor and there are those who oppose such a policy. Neither side is speaking to any point. No such change in the Volstead law is constitutionally possible while the Eighteenth amendment remains in the Constitution, and no such change in the constitution is possible except by a vote which nobody pretends will be obtainable in this generation. So, since the thing is impossible, it makes no difference whether it would be good or bad. There is no such question to discuss. Leave that completely out. Then rack your brain to find what, if anything, remains to discuss.

RABBI Newman announces that an organization of clergymen will be formed, to oppose the anti-evolution law in the legislature. There is, of course, small risk that such a bill would pass the legislature, and none at all that the Governor would sign it if it passed. The proposed organization is therefore not needed to protect us from the law. But it will be a public showing that in California organized religion is not opposed to organized knowledge, and does not believe in setting an inquisition over the study and teaching of science. That will be a good thing for religion, and for the intellectual self-respect of California, even if there is no immediate practical emergency.

SINCE this bill will not pass, it is chiefly interesting as illustrating a state of mind. Most insignificant is its familiar misuse of the words "fact" and "theory." Evolution may be taught as a theory, but not as a fact. Which means precisely nothing at all. Of course evolution can not be taught as a fact. It is not a fact. Neither is gravitation. Both are truths. They are the principles which explain and relate the facts. A "theory" is not necessarily doubtful. There is no doubt about gravitation. Neither is a "fact" necessarily a certainty. A quack doctor's advertisement is a fact, but it is not truth.

THE intent, presumably, is to permit evolution to be taught as an uncertain conjecture, but not as an established truth. Why not say so? You have not said so by saying that it may be taught as "theory," but not as "fact." Mathematics is all theory, but it is the most certain of truths; gibberish is a fact, but it does not mean anything.

DEAN POUND, of the Harvard Law School, defines a specialist as "one who knows more and more about less and less." At the opposite extreme stands the journalist, who tends to learn less and less about more and more. Both are abnormal. The ideal situation is to know enough about something to appreciate what knowledge is, and to have enough information of many things to realize where your bit of knowledge belongs in the whole scheme of other knowledge. Whether what you know is poetry, earthworms, or the stock market, is less important than that you know it well, and that you know it relatedly. Not the amount of your information, but the perspective of it, is the test of real education.

RECESS TAKEN BY BOULDER MEETING

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—Representatives of California, Arizona and Nevada to the Tri-state river conference on the proposed Boulder canyon dam were enroute to their respective state capitols today, to confer with state authorities and to gather additional data to aid in adjusting the water and power questions involved in the proposed dam.

The conference adjourned last night to meet here, February 7.

A statement issued by Charles P. Squire, Nevada, chairman of the conference, said that "the recess was taken to consult in their respective states and to give the commissioners time for more full consideration of the problems involved."

U. S. ISSUES WARNING TO CHINA

Former Kaiser Will Return to Germany

WILHELM TO LEAVE EXILE IN HOLLAND

Ex-Emperor Soon Will Be Permitted to Quit Doorn And Re-enter Fatherland

IN NATIONALIST FAVOR
Organization of New Marx Cabinet to Pave Way for Homecoming of War Lord

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—While the former kaiser celebrated his 68th birthday at Doorn, today, Nationalists here permitted it to become known that Wilhelm, expected soon to return to Germany, after the formation of the new Marx cabinet, in which members of the National party would have influential roles.

Wilhelm, Nationalists intimated today, would await the upshot of the first few weeks of right wing government in Germany. Then, quietly, perhaps secretly, he would leave Doorn, where he found refuge after his flight from Germany, in November, 1918, for Homburg von der Hoehe, near Frankfurt, where the Prussian government has granted him use of a magnificent castle.

Political observers here agreed that the personnel of the proposed new cabinet would be such that Wilhelm could return to Germany with impunity. It was believed President von Hindenburg, supported by the Nationalists, would frustrate any movement to expel the former kaiser.

Although the Nationalists disagreed among themselves regarding the desirability of Wilhelm's restoration to the throne, they virtually were unanimous in believing that he is entitled to reside in Germany and would oppose any effort to deport him.

Another version of the kaiser's plans said he told the Dutch authorities after his recent attacks of influenza that the climate at Doorn was unsuitable and his return to Germany was essential for reasons of health.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—The country east of the Mississippi today experienced weather which produced, in many sections, the coldest temperatures of the winter.

A 62-mile gale from the north sent the mercury to new lows along the Atlantic seaboard and produced much suffering. In New York City, the thermometer unofficially registered 5 below, with slight promise of relief today.

Rising temperatures, however, were promised for tomorrow. The weather bureau at Washington ordered storm warnings displayed along the southern Atlantic coast line, with gradually lowering temperatures for that region.

The coldest spot in the country was Brainerd, Minn., where the mercury sank to 39 below. Florida lured the shivering nation with summer temperatures of 79 degrees above.

Michigan today reported temperatures of zero and below. It was zero at Detroit, and 39 below at Grayling.

RANCHER INDICTED
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—David Lerma, rancher, of Imperial valley, is under indictment by the federal grand jury here today, charged with violation of the alien smuggling code. Lerma is alleged to have transported two Turks, of high birth, across the international boundary line for a sum of $1000.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 27.—The Financial Bulletin said today that the Laredo, (Tex.) Chamber of Commerce had initiated a movement designed to bring President Coolidge and President Calles together in conference, at some point on the Texas border, for discussion of the oil law dispute.

26 HEROES ARE RECOGNIZED BY CARNEGIE FUND

Bravery of Youth Is Rewarded by Medals and Cash Distribution

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 27.—The story of youthful bravery was told today in a review of the cases of heroism for which 26 heroes, 10 of whom lost their lives, were recognized by the Carnegie Hero fund in its latest distribution of medals and monetary awards.

Eight of those to receive medals were still in their teens and most of the others were in their twenties.

Pensions provided for the dependents of the 19 dead heroes by the Carnegie fund and monetary awards in other cases total $37,900, which is in addition to the medals. Since Andrew Carnegie established the fund, in 1904, 2101 acts of heroism have been rewarded in the United States and nearly 30,000 cases have been investigated in this country alone. The original fund of $5,000,000 has increased to nearly double that amount.

Notable among the cases was that of Miss Frances C. Woods, 23, a school teacher, of Portland, Ore., after a man had refused to go to the rescue, Miss Woods saved Harry C. Vaughan from drowning by forcing her horse 325 feet from shore into the Pacific ocean. Although dragged from the saddle during the rescue, she clung to the reins while the horse towed both to shore.

Another unusual act of bravery was that of Keith and Kenneth Torrey, twin brothers, aged 18, who were both drowned in an attempt to rescue Miss Arda M. Wilson from death in a lake near Dobbin, Calif. Both boys swam out to the rescue, but the tide was too strong, and they were forced under by the frigate. Their father, Grant L. Torrey, finally rescued Miss Wilson by striking her and brought her to shore. Bronze medals were awarded both youths, to be received by the father.

Others in California to receive awards were: H. Emerson Gravelle, Sequel, Calif., bronze medal. Gravelle, 15-year-old student, saved Elmer E. Gravelle, 15, student, from Electric shock, Corralitos, Calif., July 7, 1922.

Lloyd A. T. Anderson, deceased, bronze medal to the father, Michael Anderson, Alameda, 16, student, died attempting to save Richard A. Moeller, 18, from drowning at Alameda, July 1, 1923.

Charles W. Butcher, deceased, bronze medals to the widow and death benefits to her of $70 a month with $5 a month additional on account of each of two children. Butcher, 25, died attempting to save Evelyn C. Cunningham from drowning at Modesto, May 30, 1926. The widow now resides at Stockton.

300 Navajos Pursue Trio On Desert

(By United Press)
HOLBROOK, Ariz., Jan. 27.—Fighting the pangs of thirst and the dangers of the desert, two men and a woman were being trailed into the most barren section of the Arizona wastelands, early today, by a posse of 300 Navajo Indians, headed by frontier police and ranchers.

The fugitives escaped, following the shooting of Sheriff Maxwell, of Apache county, here, early yesterday, when Maxwell attempted to arrest one of the party on a burglary charge.

The bullet penetrated the sheriff's face and, although his condition is serious, the wound is not expected to prove fatal.

The trio escaped in an automobile, which was found abandoned early today, near Lupton, about 75 miles east of here, on the New Mexico-Arizona state line.

The fugitives took to the desert foothills and, in view of the fact that they are traveling afoot, in a country without settlements or water, their capture is expected within 24 hours.

The posse is led by Sheriff Dill, of Navajo county, and four deputies.

MAN RESENTENCED TO DIE ON GALLOWS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—Earl J. Clark, whose dream of Utopia in Minot, N. D., following his escape from the county jail here, was shattered by a "correspondence school" detective, will be hanged on April 1, for the murder of Charles Silva.

Clark, who established a growing business in Minot and married the belle of the city, only to be captured as the result of the activities of an amateur detective, was resented today by Superior Judge Charles S. Burdell.

He was convicted of having murdered Silva, a sailor, in a fight over a girl. He has reiterated his innocence and it was intimated by friends here that an effort will be made to save him from the gallows.

U. S. AGAIN SUES CHAPLIN FOR TAX

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—Charles Chaplin's financial worries increased $536,860.69 here today, when the government filed an additional income tax lien against the comedian, for alleged incorrect income tax returns.

The lien names the Chaplin film corporation and will not involve United artists, Chaplin's distributing agency.

According to Chaplin's attorneys, the new lien will not necessitate additional bond, but will be covered by surety posted in New York.

Southland Storm Clouds Disappear

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—Following scattered showers over widely separated districts of the Southland, last night, the storm clouds had been swept away early today, with prospects of no further precipitation in the immediate future.

Mr. Wilson was visited by a .04 precipitation while Santa Barbara recorded .12. A trace fell at San Fernando, El Cajon and Newport harbor, while the rainfall at San Bernardino and Bonita registered .02.

The storm, which brought prediction of rain yesterday, moved east, after reaching Santa Barbara.

Browning Due to Testify in Court
NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Having moved back to Broadway from suburban White Plains, Edward W. Browning today had four days to consider his wife's revelations about his penchant for rubber eggs, honking ganders and toy dogs, before he must go to the witness stand and "tell all." The millionaire realty operator is expected to testify Monday in the separation suit brought against his 16-year-old wife, Frances "Peaches" Heenan, who already has recounted her story of the marital venture.

LANDIS FINDS PLAYERS ARE NOT GUILTY

Two Charged with Throwing Games Get Official Whitewashing from Czar
MEN ARE REINSTATED

Releases Are Cancelled And Names Restored to Reserve Lists of Clubs

(By United Press)
CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—The names of Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, engraved forever in baseball's Hall of Fame, were cleared today of the mud of scandal in an official "whitewashing" by Commissioner Kennesaw M. Landis.

Landis issued a statement finding Cobb and Speaker not guilty of the charges of throwing games and thus reinstating them in organized baseball as well as the hearts of baseball fans.

Not Guilty of Fixing Games
"These players have not been nor are they now guilty of fixing a ball game," Landis stated.

"By no decent system of justice could such findings be made. Therefore, they were not placed on the ineligible list."

"As they desire to resume their withdrawal from baseball, the releases, which the Detroit and Cleveland clubs granted at their request, are cancelled, and the players' names are restored to the reserve lists of these clubs."

Landis' statement was much briefer than others he has issued in connection with the baseball scandal. It was handed out quietly in his office to a group of waiting newspaper reporters.

Statement by Landis:
The statement in full follows:
Brigham McCann, rancher and brother of James McCann, and Leonard Anderson, of Central, Ida., basketball player.

IREL D. LOWE, Central, also a member of the team.
A crowd estimated at from 50 to 200 persons was in the hall at the time of the explosion.

During the progress of the game, the lights went out. The tank of the lighting system was in the basement, under the stage, and James McCann, custodian of the hall, went to investigate.

Someone, the identity not yet known, lighted a match.

Instantly an explosion occurred, and as nearly as the scene can be reconstructed from confused and stunned witnesses, the walls at the rear end of the building fell out, letting the plaster ceiling down on the assembled crowd. Most of the dead were killed in the rush for the single exit.

MELLON DENIES HE OWNS ANY PROPERTY IN MEXICO
(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today denied that he owns any property in Mexico.

The denial followed reports that the Mellon interests had purchased oil holdings of Lord Cowdray in the southern republic.

Mellon explained he had been a stockholder for 25 years in the Gulf Oil company, a subsidiary of which, the Mexican Gulf Oil company, operates south of the Rio Grande. He has nothing to do with operations of the company and is not familiar with its affairs, the secretary asserted.

TURNER, Ida., Jan. 27.—Seven persons are dead and possibly 39 suffered injuries as result of an explosion in a Mormon amusement hall, where a basketball game was in progress here, last night.

The dead:

STABLE RULE IS DEMANDED IN FAR EAST

Protection of Americans By Responsible Government Required of Peking

BASIS OF NEW TREATY

Kellogg Makes Statement Outlining Stand Regarding Troubles in Orient

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The only thing which may keep China from protecting foreign lives and property is the dispatch of fleets and armies there, Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee, declared, in a statement today, sympathizing with China "in her greatest struggle."

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—China was warned today by the United States to agree on a stable government able to protect American lives and interests.

This is a prior condition to negotiation of new equal treaties and abrogation of extra-territorial privileges, under which the United States maintains courts and troops in China, according to a statement by Secretary of State Kellogg today.

Kellogg quoted from and reaffirmed his previous statements that this government will "negotiate the release of extra-territorial rights as soon as China is prepared to provide protection by law and through her courts to American citizens, their rights and property. In the event Chinese authorities are unable to afford such protection, it is of course the fundamental duty of the United States to protect the lives and property of its citizens."

Ready to Negotiate Treaty
"As I have said heretofore, if China can agree on the appointment of delegates representing the authorities or the people, we are prepared to negotiate such a treaty," Kellogg said.

Kellogg further reaffirmed willingness of the United States to negotiate on tariff and possibility of China abolishing the Linlin tax or the powers or alone. "The only question is with whom it shall negotiate," he said.

The statement approved the unanimous resolution of the Peking tariff conference, Nov. 19, 1925, "to recognize China's right to enjoy tariff autonomy, agree to remove the tariff restrictions which are contained in existing treaties—and consent to the going into effect of the Chinese national tariff law, on Jan. 1, 1929," the Chinese government declaring that Linlin (provincial tariffs) be abolished simultaneously.

China Expected to Delay
Close observers of the Chinese situation here said today there was little immediate possibility of China abolishing the Linlin tax or of complying with the Kellogg's two basic conditions of agreeing on a central government and giving adequate guarantees for protection of American lives and property.

Though Kellogg's reaffirmation of this government's readiness to negotiate with China alone was interpreted in some quarters as a blow at united action with the administration supporters pointed out that Britain, Japan and Belgium are already negotiating separately with either the Peking or Cantonese governments, or both.

BRITISH PREPARE TO DEFEND SHANGHAI
LONDON, Jan. 27.—With 20,000 British soldiers and marines engaged in a race to the Far East, the British government today virtually admitted that its military forces were preparing, not only for the defense of British colonies in Shanghai, but for the entire city as well, if such action is necessary.

A neutral zone, extending five miles beyond the city limits of Shanghai, great trade center of the Orient and haven for the thousands of foreign refugees, will be established by Great Britain, it was reported, and Cantonese generals will be informed that their armies must halt outside this area.

Only As Last Resort
Admitting that such a plan is being considered hypothetically, official circles emphasized that such a step would be taken only as a last resort. Its execution will hinge upon the actions of the Cantonese military authorities, who are now moving toward a clash with the defense army of

DENY HURRIED ACTION TAKEN BY GRAND JURY

Recommendation of the grand jury that nine additional deputies be employed within the next two years for the Orange county horticultural commission was made only after careful scrutiny into the needs of the office and not "hurriedly at the last meeting of the grand jury," as inferred in a newspaper editorial yesterday.

Such was the statement today of Porter Edmunds, chairman of a special committee of the grand jury, composed also of O. B. Newcom and H. Enderle, which was appointed to investigate and report back on the needs of the horticultural force in safeguarding the interests of the $20,000,000 citrus industry in Orange county.

"This special committee devoted one entire week in canvassing the county and when it reported to the grand jury that more deputies would be necessary it was so reported because this was the consensus of the best informed men in the industry here," Edmunds told The Register. "If the action was taken hurriedly, it was not without proper investigation."

"Our committee interviewed 60 of Orange county's largest citrus growers. These men appeared personally before the grand jury and absolutely endorsed our recommendations. The committee also discussed the subject with officials and members of the Northern Orange County exchange and the Orange County exchange, representing 80 per cent of the industry in this district, and found them 100 per cent in endorsing additional deputies. The exchange representatives also appeared before the grand jury and, like the leading growers, expressed wonderment that we had not suggested even more assistants for the office."

"In 1926, the county's citrus industry was estimated in value at approximately $20,000,000. The cost of additional deputies would be about $14,000. The committee believed this would be cheap protection after discovering that nearly bug infestation increased from 600 acres, in 1924, to 25,000 acres, in 1926."

DRUGGIST IS FINED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Pleading guilty to a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor, E. A. Gardiner, East Fourth street druggist, was fined $150 in city police court today by Judge J. F. Talbot.

Gardiner was turned over to city police yesterday afternoon by federal agents, who entered his drug store to check liquor receipts. Two pints of alleged synthetic gin are alleged to have been discovered by the federal officers, who called the police.

Gardiner explained in court that he had made up the liquor to be sold as medicine after a certain ingredient, which he did not have at the time, had been added.

Soil Tested for School Buildings

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—Test drills to determine the character and nature of the soil for foundation work, were taken today near Founder's rock, at the new Westwood site of the University of California, Southern Branch. The soil tests constituted the first actual groundwork for the new university home. A bridge gapping the canyon near the rock will be the first unit constructed. Work on the bridge will start soon, university authorities said.

COBB AND SPEAKER CLEAR OF CHARGES

sire to quit baseball, despite their appreciation of the fact that such action might be misconstrued.

"Inasmuch, therefore, as Leonard's attendance could neither be induced nor enforced, the commissioner consented that the hearing be put over indefinitely, and it was understood that would be the end of the matter, unless conditions thereafter should be changed as to require a different course. It was pointed out at the time that a number of people knew or had heard of the Leonard charges and of the Cobb and Wood letters and the likelihood of suspicion and rumor resulting from a retirement in these circumstances of two players of such prominence was fully discussed. And it was definitely understood that the interests of all concerned might thereafter require a public statement setting forth the charges and answers."

"The American league directors were informed of the status of affairs and that Cobb and Speaker desired to leave baseball for the reasons stated. Accordingly, the Detroit and Cleveland clubs granted releases and the American league directors rescinded their resolution calling for a hearing, with the same understanding that this ended the matter unless subsequent developments should necessitate a hearing and publication."

Gossip and Rumor Busy

"Shortly thereafter, gossip and rumor got busy. As usually transpires when these two kindly, sympathetic agencies are at work, they left in their wake a variety of progeny infinitely more harmful to the individuals concerned than the truth could possibly be. Many press associations and scores of newspapers were persistently demanding the facts. Therefore, Cobb, Speaker and Wood were called to Chicago and the situation laid before them. They all realized that untrue, distorted and garbled accounts were being innumerable and agreed that a hearing had become desirable, even with Leonard persisting in staying away."

"Accordingly, a final effort was made to induce Leonard to attend, but again he refused. The hearing was held and the commissioner at once issued the record for publication, in accordance with his definite understanding with Cobb, Speaker and Wood."

"This is the Cobb-Speaker case. These players have not been, nor are they now, found guilty of fixing a ball game. By no decent system of justice could such finding be made. Therefore, they were not placed on the ineligible list. As they desire to resume their withdrawal from baseball, the releases which the Detroit and Cleveland clubs granted at their request, in the circumstances detailed above, are cancelled and the players' names are restored to the reserve lists of those clubs."

"KENESAW M. LANDIS, Commissioner."

JOHNSON SILENT ON REINSTATEMENT EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Jan. 27.—News of exoneration of Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker by the high commissioner of baseball was received disinterestedly by Ban Johnson, deposed head of the American league, who took sharp issue with Landis over charges against the two stars.

"I have nothing to say," Johnson said flatly, when asked for comment on the official action. Johnson is too ill to think or talk about the controversy, his physician said.

LEONARD IS ILL AT HOME NEAR FRESNO, Jan. 27.—Hubert "Dutch" Leonard, former major league pitcher, whose charges against Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker involved them in the baseball scandal, is ill at his farm near here and could not be informed of the reinstatement of the players this morning, according to his wife.

"Mr. Leonard has been very ill and cannot be disturbed," Mrs. Leonard declared.

"When he wakes up today, I will tell him about the reinstatement, but I am sure he will make no statement regarding it," she said. "However, if he does wish to comment on it, he will call newspapermen."

Leonard's illness is a "very severe cold," and he spent a restless night last night, his wife said.

PAIR ARRESTED IN ORANGE ON HOLDUP CHARGE

F. H. Batty, employee of the Orange County Fumigating company, Orange, doesn't believe in being held up and his unruffled attitude, when accosted by two highwaymen on North Pixley street, Orange, last night, caused the would-be bandits to flee in haste. Twenty minutes later the men alleged to have attempted the holdup, Robert W. Hlatt, of San Diego, and Lewis Maron, of Orange, were in jail.

As Batty was walking on Pixley street, about 9 o'clock, a man, asserted to have been Maron, walked from behind a tree and demanded that Batty "stick 'em up." Batty was in no humor to be held up, so he replied, "Nothin' doing" and continued on his way. The highwayman is said to have repeated his request, receiving the same answer. About this time another man, alleged to have been Hlatt, also said to have been standing behind a tree, is declared to have called to his companion, "Come on, let's beat it."

The would-be holdup men evidently got "cold feet" at the same time, both hurried from the scene. Batty retraced his steps and reported the episode to the Orange police. A search of the city was started and Hlatt and Maron were arrested as they were walking toward the city limits.

The two men will be given a hearing before Judge Linsie, in Orange, at 9:30 Saturday morning. They are being held on charges of assault with intent to commit robbery.

AMERICA ISSUES WARNING TO CHINA

Sun Chuan Fang, Such a clash, which must inevitably result in victory for the numerically superior and better equipped Cantonese, in the opinion of military experts here, might precipitate outbreaks which would make the recent Hankow disturbances pale into insignificance. It was claimed. The fight for Shanghai has developed into a race between the British expeditionary forces, about 20,000 strong, now at least six weeks away from the city, and the Cantonese armies, marching along a front less than 100 miles away.

While the government stressed its determination to pursue a peaceful policy, unless British property and lives are threatened, it was none the less intent upon a determined defense of the city in the event of a clash.

Twenty Thousand vs. Millions If the Chinese forces attempt to gain entrance to the city by force, Great Britain, with 20,000 men and what volunteers can be recruited from the international settlements, will defend the city against the millions of Chinese, who might flock to the banner of the victorious Cantonese.

These forces will form a thin line of defense stretching along the 21-mile front encircling the city.

"We do not expect such an eventuality," one government official said. "First of all, we are doing our utmost to reach an agreement with Foreign Minister Chen and, secondly, we do not intend to take part in the factional dispute. If the Cantonese promise to enter the city peacefully, as have other conquerors, we will respect their authority."

U. S. MAY BE ASKED TO CALL CONFERENCE

GENEVA, Jan. 27.—Unofficial consideration was being given today to the possibility that the United States might be requested to summon another international conference to discuss China and her troubles.

League officials believed that successful league intervention in China would be impossible without the collaboration of the United States. The suggestion that the United States call a conference of the nine powers, which participated in the previous parity at Washington, would request that the conference be under the auspices of the league, although called by the United States.

By enabling the United States to summon the conference, league officials said, recognition would have been given to the accomplishments of the first Washington conference.

A WORD OF COMFORT
On Gordon's monument in St. Paul's Cathedral appears this epitaph: "He gave his strength to the weak, his sympathy to the suffering, his substance to the poor and his heart to God."
Take that as the ideal for your own life and put it into practice. You will be amazed to discover what endurance and patience and comfort is to be found in spending yourself for others.

Speeder Enters

County Bastile

Ernest G. Patterson, 30, 2929 Vista street, Oakland, was booked in the Orange county jail last night to serve a five-day jail sentence for speeding.

The man was arrested on January 25, by George Peterkin, state traffic officer, who charged him with speeding 57 miles an hour on Lincoln boulevard.

Patterson was sentenced to jail by Jus'ee Kenneth Morrison yesterday, on a plea of guilty.

Held to Answer

On Attack Count

Edward Driscoll, Huntington Beach oil worker, charged with a statutory offense against a Santa Ana girl, near Huntington Beach, on the night of January 12, was held to answer to the superior court, following his preliminary examination today, in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court. Bail was reduced from $25,000 to $10,000 on motion of Attorney P. C. Jones, Los Angeles, who will defend Driscoll.

PRAISE FROM LIPS OF NOTED COMPOSER SPURS CHORISTERS TO GREATER MUSICAL EFFORT

The highest praise for the Santa Ana Boys' chorus was given by Carrie Jacobs Bond, when she was an honored guest at the annual meeting of the senior and junior divisions of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, those in charge of the destinies of the singing organization pointed out today, as the hour for the third concert by the chorus, tonight, in the high school auditorium, drew near.

"You are doing a wonderful work in sponsoring this chorus," the noted composer said. "In a few years, this organization will make Santa Ana famous and it is deserving of your heartiest support. When you put good music in the hearts of your boys, you make them better citizens, increase their love for their homes and, in every respect, make life better for them. Remember, there never is anything bad in music."

With the compliments of Mrs. Bond fresh in their minds, the 160 members of the chorus were expected to give a more spirited program tonight than the two concerts given in December, a few weeks after the organization was completed. Since that time the boys have been heard three times over radio and have added a number of new songs to their repertoire. New soloists also have been added, Mrs. F. H. Beeson, director, said.

The concert tonight will begin at 8 o'clock. The complete program will be as follows: "The Blacksmith".....(Mozart) "Tyrolean Chorus" from "Wilhelm Tell".....(Rossini) "Santa Ana Boys' Chorus" "Children's Piece" opus 79, No. 1.....(Mendelssohn) Double String Quartet "Gypsy John".....(Clay) "Little Annie Rooney".....(Loomis) "Santa Ana Boys' Chorus" "Turkish March".....(Beethoven) Piano duet: Earl Motley, Duncan Harnois.

"Aura Lee".....Old Melody "Oh, Susanna".....(Goster) "Santa Ana Boys' Chorus" "Banjo Song".....(Sydney Home) Vocal Solo.....Fred Taylor

Sailors' Hornpipe Dance.....Addison Bowers, George Miles, Neil Tomlinson, Robert Scove, George Munro, Jack Gridley, Bob Spurgeon, Bill O'Neill.

Intermission "Massa Dear".....(Dvorak) "Plantation Melodist".....(Armistage) "Down in Mobile".....(Probst) "Santa Ana Boys' Chorus" Violin Solo.....Ralph Greer.

"Anvil Chorus" from "Il Trovatore".....(Verdi) "Cowboy Song".....(Anderson) "Anchored".....(Watson) "Santa Ana Boys' Chorus" "Whispering Hope".....(Hawthorne) Vocal duet: Asa Herren and Ernest Smith.

"Hiawatha's Journey".....(Longfellow-Wilson) "Santa Ana Boys' Chorus" "Solvejg's Song".....(Grieg) Double String Quartet. "Street Urchin's Melody".....(Tinker's Song).....(DeKoven) "A Merry Life"—Italian folk song.

Santa Ana Boys' Chorus "Capriccio in F Minor".....(Dohnanyi) Piano solo: Everard Stovall. "California's Calling Me".....(Miesner) "Santa Ana, Eden of the World".....(Tompkins)

An outstanding feature of the campaign activities here was a luncheon meeting, Tuesday, in the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. Eva Craven Wheeler, state president of the W. C. T. U., presided. Addresses on law enforcement were given by Leroy A. Warren, chief probation officer of Orange county; Judge H. G. Ames, of the superior court; and J. H. Lang, of San Francisco.

Other speakers on the program were the Rev. R. H. Silverthorn, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church; Mrs. Estelle Harbo, county president of the W. C. T. U., and Mrs. W. B. Tedford, vice president of the Santa Ana branch of the organization.

Mrs. Joseph A. Pipal, of the faculty of Occidental college, will be the speaker at the annual dinner at the Y. W. C. A., to be held Monday night, January 31, beginning at 6:15, in the American Legion hall, on Birch street.

Mrs. Pipal has spent her life in the study of girls and their problems, in the United States and abroad, and is fitted to discuss them, according to Miss Nancy Elder, Y. W. C. A. secretary. For some time Mrs. Pipal, with her husband, was connected with the University of Prague, in Czechoslovakia.

Other numbers on the program will include community singing, musical selections by Mrs. Holly Lash Visei and other artists, yearly reports and announcement of the results of the election for a new board of directors, Miss Elder said.

Members of the association may bring a friend to the meeting. Reservations must be made by tomorrow night, either through the various church representatives or the Y. W. C. A., phone 2981, it was pointed out.

The note was involved with a property transaction between Mariola and Talbert. According to testimony at the trial, Mariola agreed to purchase a piece of property from Talbert and placed $4000 in escrow on the deal. Meanwhile, he leased the land back to Talbert, who executed the $1000 note for rental. Then it developed that the property was subject to easements for pole lines and other rights-of-way, which caused Mariola to reject the deed. Talbert refused to release the escrow. A deadlock resulted and neither side can procure the $4000 in escrow, it is said. Talbert's refusal to pay the $1000 note was based upon his failure to receive payment for the land from Mariola, who now doesn't want the land.

Attorney Charles D. Swanner represented Mariola at the trial, Attorney Milburn G. Harvey appearing for Talbert.

In some persons, the arteries have begun to harden at the age of 40, while with others this process does not begin until 65.

James Mariola was awarded judgment for $1000 against S. E. Talbert, of Talbert, when Superior Judge H. G. Ames late yesterday gave his decision in the suit brought by Mariola on a note. The judgment also covered interest and $150 attorney fees.

The first of a series of community singings will be held in the Y. M. C. A., beginning at 7:30. Singing will be directed by A. J. Rutter, Y. chorister. Song sheets will be provided. Xylophone selections by Merle Ramsey, and the Misses Lucy Belle, Elizabeth Morgan and Dorothy Ramsey, will feature the program.

W. C. T. U. GETS $10,000 FROM N. H. LEONARDS

A check for $10,000, a donation from Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Leonard, 620 North Ross street, will head the list of Santa Ana subscriptions to the W. C. T. U. building and endowment fund, according to an announcement made today at the campaign headquarters, in the First Presbyterian church.

The Leonard contribution is an outright gift to the cause. It carries no other restrictions than that the proposed home for aged women shall be constructed of reinforced concrete and be completed within a period of two years. Three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Leonard contributed $25,000 to the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. building fund.

The Leonard contribution is in a direct contrast to other subscriptions, which are in form of loans without interest for a period of five years.

A campaign to raise $75,000 in Orange county, of which amount $25,000 is to be subscribed in Santa Ana, was launched last Tuesday. Contributions to the fund, it was explained by the campaign committee, are not in the form of outright donations but in form of loans without interest for a period of five years. Altogether, it is expected, $600,000 will be raised in Southern California.

An outstanding feature of the campaign activities here was a luncheon meeting, Tuesday, in the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. Eva Craven Wheeler, state president of the W. C. T. U., presided. YOUTH IS CHARGED WITH CAR RIFLING

A young boy, alleged to have been caught in the act of rifling an automobile near First and Main streets at 10 a. m., today, was captured by employees of the Hupp Motor company, 100 South Main street, and turned over to city police.

The boy, a juvenile, was lodged in the detention home. According to a statement made by City Marshal Claude Rogers, he is of the opinion that the capture of the youth today may lead to other arrests, and a solution to the epidemic of auto "stripping" in Santa Ana.

The boy was captured after a chase of two blocks. At the time of his arrest he wore a hat and overcoat which, he is said to have told police, were stolen from a car by a "buddy" and given to him.

PASADENA WILL HAVE ANNUAL Y. CONVENTION

The annual state convention of the state Y. M. C. A. will be held in Pasadena, in February, according to announcement made today by Harry Lewis, recording secretary of the Santa Ana Y. Santa Ana members are planning to attend the sessions.

An entire week will be devoted to various state gatherings in the interests of Y work. On Sunday, February 6, a conference of leaders of boys' clubs will be held, opening at 1:30 and continuing until 6 o'clock.

Secretaries and committeemen of associations in town and country fields will hold sessions at Oak Wild, a mountain resort in Arroyo Seco, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Boys' secretaries and boys' work committeemen from all over the state will meet for their annual study of boys' work problems on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The annual general meeting will begin Friday in the Pasadena Y building, and continue until Saturday noon.

Physical directors will assemble Saturday night. Two important conferences, one for members of the young men's divisions of the Y. M. C. A. and the other for employed boys, will be held Sunday afternoon, February 13.

The seven conferences will be attended by hundreds of men and boys from all over the state and will be addressed by numerous noted speakers.

Cameron Beck, director of personnel of the New York stock exchange and a national figure in boys' work, will assist in the programs. Arthur N. Cotton, one of the Y national council secretaries, also will be present. C. H. J. Truman, of Oakland, and E. J. Cooper, of Minneapolis, active Y workers, will have prominent places on the list of speakers.

President E. C. Jenkins, of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. college, will have a prominent part in the convention. Dr. J. A. Francis, of Los Angeles, is scheduled to deliver the opening address Saturday morning.

More than half of the members of the Santa Ana board of directors have signified their intentions of attending the convention on Friday and Saturday, February 11 and 12, Lewis says, and many group leaders will attend the leaders' conference, on Sunday. Boys' Work Secretary T. P. McKee will attend the boys' work sessions. General Secretary Ralph Smedley will be present at the general meeting and Physical Director R. R. Russick will attend the meeting of physical directors.

The various sessions of the convention are open to visitors and Lewis says that those interested in hearing some of the notable speakers on the program will be welcomed, provided they make their reservations in advance.

Miss Mabel Mitchell Breaks 63-Day Fast After Los- ing 43 Pounds

Two times Miss Mabel Mitchell started to fast and twice she failed in her purpose. The third time she stuck to it and today was breaking a 63-day period without food. She is 27 years old and lives at 2073 Bush street.

Miss Mitchell, who is a practical nurse, began her third fast the day after Thanksgiving, so that she had a considerable reserve on which to launch out on her no-food venture. When she began, she weighed 201 1-2 pounds, which she considered too much for her own good.

Today, when she began the gradual process of getting back on a strict diet, the scales showed she weighed 157 3-4 pounds, or a loss of 43 1-4 pounds, as the result of her abstinence from food.

Miss Mitchell, who weighed over 100 pounds when she was 14 years old, but who has been ill the greater part of her life, was unable to follow the usual methods of reducing and doctors told her fasting was her only chance to get back to normal weight.

When she started out, Miss Mitchell said that she didn't have any idea how long she was going to ignore food, but she was determined to fast until her purpose had been accomplished.

After the first ill effects of going without food successfully had been withstood, Miss Mitchell, who greatly enjoys trying out choice recipes, found that she could handle all sorts of tempting food and never feel any desire to taste them herself. She worked in the kitchen throughout the 63 days and today she declared that her knowledge of dietetics had been greatly increased as the result of her experience.

California orange and lemon juice, diluted, was the only food she took during the fast. She drank plenty of water, but food had no attraction for her, not even the feasts of Christmas and New Year's day.

Her chief problem, now, is to reap permanent benefits from her long fast. Doctors have told her that she probably will not put on more than 10 pounds of the weight she lost and that by proper attention to her diet, she may prevent even the 10-pound gain.

Maloney Asks for Bout Date Change

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Tex Rickard has not cancelled the bout scheduled for February 18 between Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight, and Jack Delaney, light heavyweight champion, it was said today at the Garden. Maloney has asked for a postponement on account of an injured hand and Rickard is trying to arrange a satisfactory date.

Take Little colds in hand

COLDS are the Nation's most costly and dangerous disease, and although scientists confess they do not know what causes them they do know: "To Avoid a BIG cold stop a little one!"

In relieving colds, little or big, here's the approved treatment: (1) A day's rest. (2) A laxative. (3) A light diet. (4) Vicks rubbed on throat and chest.

Vicks medicated vapors, released by the body heat, are inhaled direct to the air passages; at the same time Vicks acts like a poultice.

Mothers cherish Vicks as a treatment for children's colds because, being externally applied, it cannot upset delicate digestions.

Philathea Girls Plan Surprise Party for Popular Teacher

Coming as a complete but joyous surprise to Mrs. J. W. Law, who for the past eight years has taught the Philathea class of Spurgeon Memorial Sunday school, was a party complimenting her birthday and given for her Tuesday night by the class at her home, 315 South Birch street.

Mrs. Law conducts a class at the Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday nights and met with her girls as usual, but responding to the seeming demands of the members, concluded the classwork early. When she reached her home, the lights were dimmed, and she was unaware until her entry, that the place was already occupied by the remaining members of the class.

Miss Hester Covington had aided the conspirators by making it possible for them to take possession, and, otherwise, acting as hostess during Mrs. Law's absence. Flowers were everywhere. Earlier in the day, Mrs. J. W. Allen had brought quantities of sweet peas as birthday greeting to her friend, and these were supplemented by fragrant violets, the gift of Miss Hazel Greenleaf.

Mrs. Law was overwhelmed, but rose to the occasion and enjoyed with her guests, all the merry games and contests they had planned. Refreshments too were part of the general scheme, and included a delicious birthday cake. The final surprise of the evening came with the presentation to the hostess, of a handsome brief case marked with her name in letters of gold, for her to carry the papers needed in her teaching.

Miss Norma Rossman, a member of the class whose birthday is the same date and who is happy at being the "twin" of the teacher of whom all the class members are so fond, also gave her an individual little gift of a dainty silver bud vase. In addition there were messages and cards from absent members of the class who sent their regrets at not being able to be present.

Non-members who enjoyed a part of the evening included Miss Covington and two young men, Starr Ozment and Charles Coldiron, while class members celebrating the birthday of their hostess, were Mary Maude Cadle, Stella Tichenall Elliott, Hazel Greenleaf, Eunice Jones, Vena Jones, Hilda Krug, Lola Mehaffey, Lucille Noah, Mabel Ozment, Ellen Young Reifel, Norma Rossman, Meta Rossman, Cora-Lee Ritter and Alverda West.

Voyagers Find Balboa Very Interesting

Dr. and Mrs. P. R. Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Winslow, who have just returned from a trip to Balboa, the Canal Zone, have many interesting things to tell of their travels. The quartet returns in excellent health, and while the travelers state that they would not care to reside in any of the countries visited, they enjoyed everything thoroughly and plan to take the trip again.

The party left Wilmington on the steamer Ecuador on November 15 and returned January 12. Five days out from the harbor they docked at Manzanilla, Mexico, where they viewed the loading and unloading of ships at the seaport, but did not have time to go into the interior as they did at the next stop at Salvador, where they motored to the capital city of San Salvador, greatly enjoying the sight of the great coffee plantations.

Corinto, Nicaragua, is a typical Spanish city, and three weeks were spent at Balboa, the western entrance to the Panama canal, while one week was passed interestingly in Cristobal on the Atlantic side. The Santa Anas stopped at the Trivoli hotel in Balboa.

Panama City, with a population of 70,000, they found very quaint with its narrow streets and beautiful cathedrals, and Ancon, the government post, impressed them with its low hills, beautifully landscaped, which reminded them of Lemon Heights. The government has done everything possible to make life pleasant for the soldiers stationed in the Zone, much land having been reclaimed.

The visitors had access to the mechanism which operates the great locks of the canal, being piloted by a man who has lived in the zone for forty years and who assisted in the building of the Panama canal. From a high point they could watch the ships come and go through the locks.

There was rain nearly every day while the Santa Anas were in Balboa. When they were caught in one of the heavy showers, they would slip into an interesting shop and remain until it was over.

In order to return on the same boat on which they went, the travelers stayed three weeks in Balboa, but state that two weeks is sufficient. They liked the boat's personnel so well, however, that they waited and met many interesting passengers both going and coming.

PASTOR TO TALK ON CHINESE STRUGGLE

"China Struggling to Her Feet" will be the topic of the Rev. Allan Hunter, author, traveler and preacher, who will occupy the pulpit of the Reformed Presbyterian church Sunday night. The service will begin at 7 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Hunter recently returned from a year's work among the students and youth of China. His is first-hand information. The Rev. Mr. Edgar will occupy the Rev. Mr. Hunter's pulpit, in Pasadena, and will speak on the "Moslem World."

Fire Laddies Welcome Friendly Group of Dinner Guests

Just at this time of year, wives and sweethearts of the gallant fire laddies, begin to anticipate the annual dinner party tendered them at Central fire station, and allow their thoughts to dwell on the delicately browned fried chicken and hot biscuits for which their hosts are noted. Concerted thinking on the part of many, seems to bring things to pass, for the invitation was issued in good time and last night the guests assembled in central station to enjoy the annual event.

Long tables were arranged for over fifty diners, and the men on night duty served the menu which their fellows on day duty had prepared. Never was tender fried chicken nor more deliciously seasoned mashed potatoes nor richer gravy, than the fare provided by Theo Lacy and Ike Fields, and never were flakier, more delicately browned hot biscuits than those made by Henry Reed. All the men were highly complimented by the guests, on the excellent dinner.

In the evening, cards were introduced as amusement and the group surrounding each card table decided for itself what game should be played. As a consequence while one circle might be puzzling over the intricacies of bridge another was shrieking over the merriment of Michigan or tense with the strain of poker.

Sharing the varied pleasures of the event were Messrs. and Mesdames John Luxembourg, Sid Kimball, Theo Lacy Jr., J. T. Lacy, J. J. Hanson, P. T. Brightwell, W. J. Jenkins, J. C. Johnson, William Hottle, Roy Criddle, Homer J. McCormack, W. C. Fox and Ben Patterson.

Local Relatives at Beautiful Wedding

Yesterday was the date chosen for the wedding in Los Angeles, of Alfred Wilgus, a nephew of Roy V. Shafter of this city, deputy district attorney, to Miss Mabel Carolyn Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Abbott Warner, 2237 Harvard Boulevard, Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Shafter, of 311 East Washington avenue, motored into the city for the wedding, a very beautiful function which took place in the Warner home at 4 o'clock. Quantities of flowers in varying tones of pink, combined with amaranth and palms, gave a garden effect to the spacious residence, where 125 guests were assembled.

A musical program of charm and beauty preceded the ceremony which was extremely formal with the bride in heavy satin and flowing veil, attended by a bevy of beautifully gowned bridesmaids, while Mr. Wilgus was assisted by his father in the Wilgus Manufacturing company.

Happy Evening Affair Compliments Long Association

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hoy and Miss Jean Hoy delightfully entertained Tuesday evening in their home at 1225 French street, complimenting Miss Linda Paul, principal of Lincoln school. For the past thirteen years, Miss Paul has had some one of the Hoy children in school but at the close of the present semester, Miss Jean, the youngest of the interesting family, will leave Lincoln school for junior high, thus closing the friendly and intimate associations of teacher and pupil that have existed between the family and the principal for so long.

Hearts offered diversion during the evening hours, and Miss Doris Schenck, holding high score, received a beautifully embroidered linen towel. To Miss Paul was presented an attractive pair of book ends in ship design, a token of love and appreciation from the Hoy's.

Before the evening was brought to a close, the older daughters of the home, the Misses Wilma and Betty Hoy, now of high school and junior college, served refreshments in two enjoyable courses. Those participating in the friendly affair in addition to the hosts and members of the family, were Miss Linda Paul, honoree, Miss Alma Steward, Miss Bernice Boyd, Miss Berthene Selway, Miss Maxine Zolman, Miss Minnie Penman, Miss Doris Schenck, Miss Allen, Mrs. Georgia Sherrill, Mrs. Frances Hart, Mrs. Freda McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sexton and George Caskey.

Plans in Readiness For Anniversary Dinner Dance

Reminiscent of the brilliant scene of just two years ago when Santa Ana Country club threw open its doors to hundreds of guests on the occasion of its formal opening, will be the dinner dance tomorrow night at the beautiful clubhouse.

Elaborate plans are being formulated for the function which will be strictly formal and at which members alone will be greeted. Dinner will begin promptly at 7 o'clock and at 8 o'clock, the orchestra will open the program of dance music. The scene promises to rival the brilliancy of that opening ball, which all those who attended, agreed was beautiful to a degree that had never been equaled in the city.

Reservations for many parties have been made at the office of the clubhouse, while countless members will ask another couple to share their table. Dutch treat tables will be much in evidence and undoubtedly will be the gayest of the gay as such affairs invariably are.

Among the friendly small parties will be that of Judge Emerson Marks who has made reservations for four; D. Eymann Huff also entertaining four, and B. I. Chandler whose table will be arranged for half a dozen. Larger parties include one planned by B. J. MacMullen for eighteen and Dr. William A. Flood for twenty. These are but a few of the reservations already made. With T. F. McGilvray, and undoubtedly by tonight there will be almost a complete roster of the membership represented on the reservation book.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

First Presbyterian Aid

The lovely home of Mrs. Harry Westover, 1527 East Fourth street, was opened Wednesday afternoon to 53 members and guests, of the northeast section Ladies Aid society of the First Presbyterian church. The home was beautifully decorated with pink and white sweet-peas and narcissus, and carrying out the Valentine motif, red hearts were very much in evidence.

After a very brief business meeting, led by Miss Mary Craig, at which 117 calls were reported, a very interesting program was given. Mrs. Ernest Crozier Phillips in her usual pleasing manner gave a reading. Mrs. H. M. Sammis led in the singing of several songs.

Little Dorothy Westover sang very sweetly. The women also entered into the enjoyment of several games, introduced by the hostess, the prize being won by Mrs. Sammis. Mrs. Westover was assisted in her hostess duties by Mesdames J. F. Talbot, George Lewis, C. H. Dawes and Laurie, and served sandwiches, cookies and tea.

Make It a Banner Week for Home Industry

It is well worth your while to give this matter your careful consideration. It means a direct advantage to every citizen of Santa Ana and Orange County. You should see every single exhibit before the week is over.

The products of some 65 different industries are now on display. There is sugar, candy and gum in one window. In another there are creamery products, and in still another, canned fruits and preserves. In fact, there may be seen on display for the first time in the history of Santa Ana the numerous articles manufactured in our city and vicinity. Agricultural machinery is on display next to perfumes and toilet articles; automobile accessories in close proximity to book binding and finished lumber products.

Many attractive articles are made in Santa Ana. You should see the exhibits in the downtown store windows to appreciate them. While the Made-at-Home products movement is under way under the direction of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, other cities are reaching out hungrily to take your money away to build up their own interests and payrolls. They are robbing Peter in Santa Ana to pay Paul in some other distant city.

Don't let them! "Buying-at-Home-Week" is a call to arms.

Every housewife, every buyer of merchandise should fall into line. Come downtown Friday and see the window displays. Examine the goods, ask questions about them. See how reasonable the prices are and how excellent the quality. Make a point of using the Made-at-Home articles that you have not tried before. Send some local product to a friend living elsewhere. Get acquainted with the local goods this week and don't forget in coming weeks to continue the acquaintance. That is the sort of ammunition that will reach the mark.

All together, let's keep the two hundred thousand dollars at home which we are annually sending away for bread, also the fifty thousand dollars we are sending away each year for printing and the hundreds of thousands of dollars we annually send away for other products that are made right here in Santa Ana.

With the splendid inspiration of the excellent window displays, it should be easy to make this a banner week for home industry. Your action will be felt. Your co-operation is needed. If you have interests in Santa Ana or Orange County, if you have a living to make here, if you have friends to help here, do your part toward making this "Buy-at-Home Week" a success. SHOW ENTHUSIASM. BOOST THE LOCAL PRODUCTS. See all the displays if you can—AND DON'T FORGET TO BUY.

IDEAS and Ideals

Home products window displays are attracting the public interest in Santa Ana this week. A display of cigars has a strange appearance in a men's clothing store, and sugar beet products are queer ornaments for a furniture store window but these and other seemingly inconsistent displays are directing the public attention to the fact that Santa Ana is the home of a great many important industries.

The extraordinary window displays this week are a part of the chamber of commerce campaign to stimulate the consumption of home products by home people. Santa Ana is not generally rated as a manufacturing town. The manufacturers of Santa Ana are going quietly about their business, calmly facing their problems and successfully working them out. The average industrial concern in Santa Ana is making a healthy and highly satisfactory growth. They would make a more rapid growth, the chamber of commerce believes, if the home people would make it a rule to buy home industry products whenever possible.

Every town in California is wanting new industries. The average town is so anxious to have new manufacturing plants come in that they go to unreasonable lengths to secure them. In making concessions to proposed manufacturers, the average community makes many mistakes, some of which, where promotion of stocks and other financial guarantees are concerned, work out to the dissatisfaction of the enthusiastic citizens who put up the money. The theory upon which the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce is working is that a "bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." The chamber believes that if any industrial projects deserves financial help and general encouragement, it is the local industry that has already demonstrated its good faith by putting in the time and money to work up a going business. There are dozens of manufacturing concerns in Santa Ana, some small and some not so small, which never have asked the people of Santa Ana for a cent of financial backing. They are here because they have faith in their products and faith in Santa Ana. The idea of the chamber of commerce is that these industries should have the first consideration of the people if any cash or effort is available for the promotion of the manufacturing business.

The displays in the windows of business houses this week are a revelation to the average citizen, whose routine does not bring him in touch with the manufacturing life of the town. It is a chance for the people to see the lines that are manufactured here without making a tour of the various manufacturing districts to see them.

Coronado Isles To Be Developed

TIA JUANA, Jan. 27.—The Coronado islands, Mexican territory, in the Pacific ocean, 12 miles from here, will be turned into amusement and residential centers, according to plans announced here. A syndicate of American and Mexican capitalists has leased the groups from the Mexican government and plans immediate erection of a yacht harbor, clubhouse, hotel and a casino. The syndicate was formed under the laws of Mexico.

BARR LUMBER COMPANY

A friend of ours recently made some alterations in his dwelling, and as a result has for sale an attractive built-in buffet which can be bought very reasonably. It has a bevel plate mirror and everything. For further information call on or phone us (No. 986).

BARR LUMBER COMPANY

Have you seen the "Manufactured in Santa Ana" exhibit of the Barr Lumber Co. in the show window of the Reinhaus Bros. Department store, at 202 E. 4th St. All items in this window were manufactured in the fully equipped mill of our plant located at 1022 E. 4th St.

The contracting firm of F. S. Bishop has begun work on the new packing house of the Francis Citrus Association, located on the San Joaquin Fruit Co. ranch. Close to 150,000 feet of lumber and several carloads of cement will be used in its construction.

We were just about ready to discontinue this space in the Register when we heard the "boss" say the other day that he saw a man reading "Sawdust and Shavings." Being thus encouraged, we will continue.

Did you ever hear of a forty million dollar appetite? That is the estimated loss in American homes due to the moth's gustatory proclivities for furs, woolen coats and other garments. Why not invest in some chests or cedar-lined closets and thus eliminate this "star boarder" as far as your household is concerned? Think this over.

We are sorry to state that our co-worker, Wm. Whitney, was struck by an automobile last Saturday afternoon and suffered a fracture of the leg. No one about our establishment knows quite as well as "Billy" how to handle the wood-turning lathe, so for the good of all concerned we hope to see him back with us very soon.

OIL LEASING IS RESUMED IN H. B. TOWN LOT SECTION

Showings in San Martinez Company's Wildcat Well Cause Renewed Activity

S. A. MEN LEASE TO JAMESON FIRM

$1000 Cash Bonus Per Lot Being Offered Owners as Drilling Inducement

Leasing activity in the town lot section east of Seventeenth street, Huntington Beach, which has been dormant for some time, has started up again with a rush. Leases are commanding a $1000 cash bonus per lot, with drilling clauses calling for 30 to 60 days and substantial royalties. Many residents of the district, who refused to lease for several weeks in the hope of getting big prices for their property and leases, have become worried through lack of leasing activity and have leased for much less than they had been asking.

There are now more than 20 wells drilling in the section east of Seventeenth street. Interest is centered on the San Martinez well on the corner of Ninth street and Ocean avenue. This well is now at a depth of about 2000 feet and should find some oil within the next few days. The Jameson Oil company secured a lease on the corner of Olive avenue and Fourteenth street this week from H. B. Haskell and H. G. Stearns, of Santa Ana, and W. R. McKee, local real estate man. The lease calls for drilling within 90 days. A 10-lot community lease on Walnut avenue between Tenth and Eleventh streets was secured this week by the Richfield Oil company. The lease calls for three wells and a drilling clause is based upon the finding of the San Martinez well.

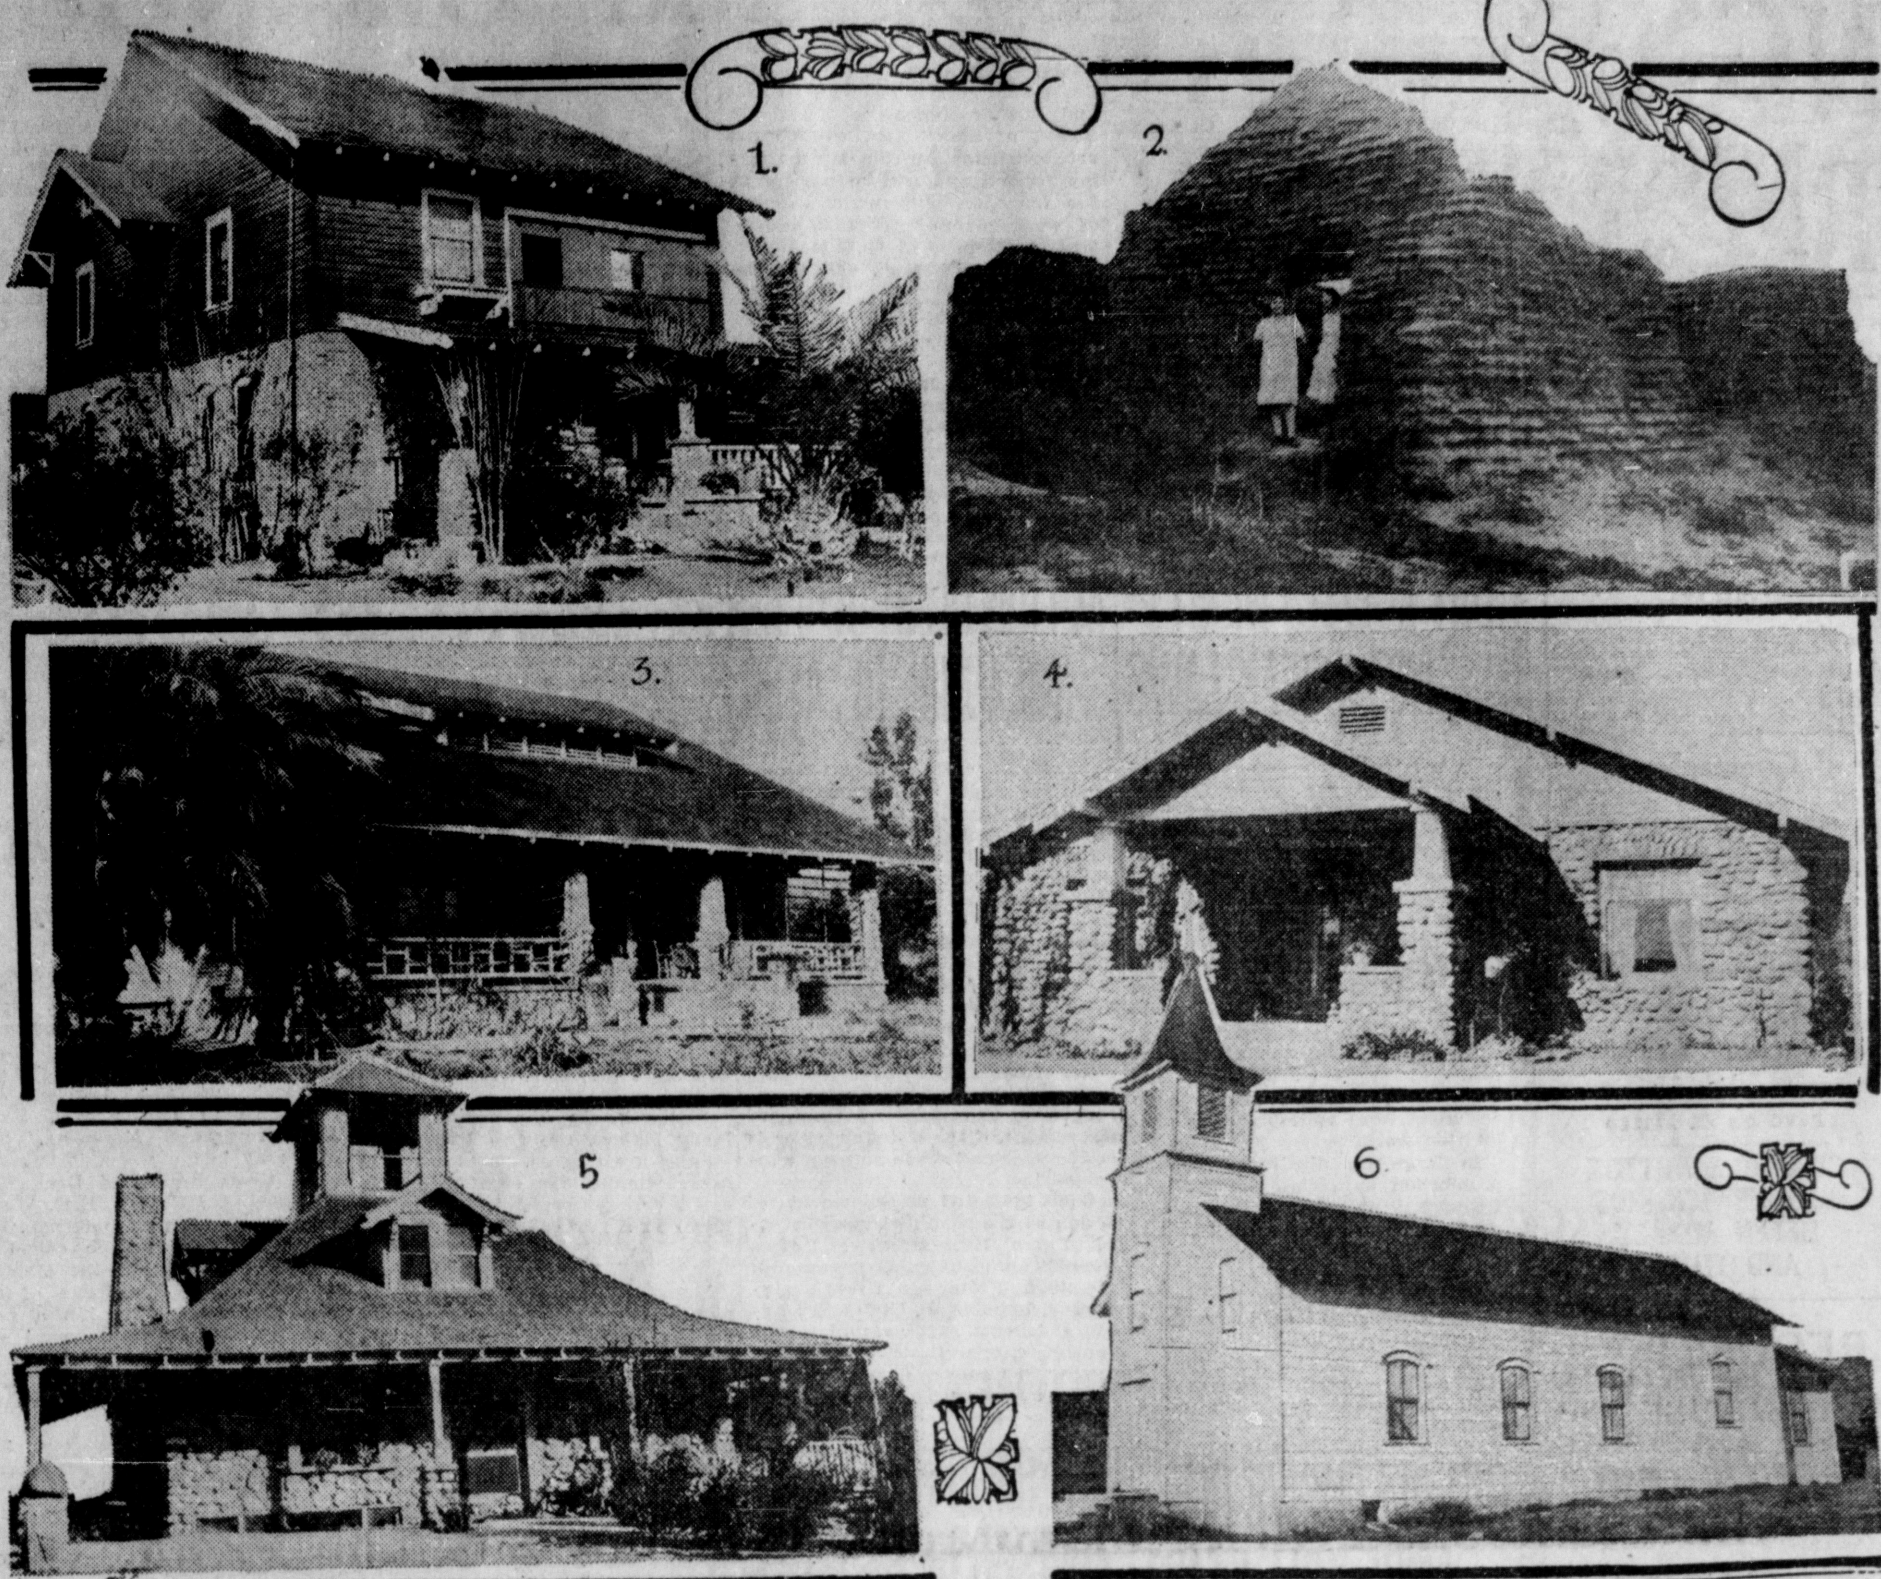

C. P. Colvin has leased a 75-foot drilling site to George F. Getty, according to reports. The lease is situated on the corner of Tenth street and Walnut avenue and is in the same block with the San Martinez well. W. J. Ellery is reported to be interested in the lease.

S. E. Andrews, Hansler Larter and W. D. Young are among other well known local persons who have leased their property for oil during the past few days.

MANY CITRUS GROVES BEING ESTABLISHED AT ESPERANZA

Entire District Expected To Be Planted to Orange Trees in Near Future

MANY ATTRACTIVE HOMES DOT AREA

Ruins of Adobe Buildings Lend Touch of Romance To S. A. Valley Section

Many of the descendants of Bernardo Yorba, closely connected with the early history of Orange county, still live in the locality of Esperanza, where the old Yorba adobe home, composed of 218 rooms, once stood. The land still remains largely in the hands of the Yorba family.

The huge grant, once owned by the Spanish family, now is divided into small ranches, planted to orange trees. The time is seen when the entire valley around Esperanza is devoted to citrus fruits. Several new orchards have been set out recently. Forty acres were planted last year to oranges by Mrs. J. C. Travis, granddaughter of Bernardo Yorba. The grove of P. S. Yorba is just beginning to bear.

The estimated value of the 157,000 acre Yorba estate was $36,525. Now, a 20-acre orange ranch commands a greater price.

The 260 acres in the Esperanza section was originally divided among eight heirs. The descendants of the Yorba family are scattered over Orange county and Southern California but those who still live near the original home site are Mrs. Travis, Mrs. Adela Carillo, Mrs. P. Y. Dominguez, P. S. Yorba and E. T. Yorba.

The old adobe home, partly washed away by floods from the Santa Ana river, has crumbled until the site now is a plowed field. Some adobe buildings still remain to give Esperanza a touch of the romantic old Spanish atmosphere. The ruins of the old Catholic church stands at the rear of the present church.

On the bluffs above Esperanza, eight oil rigs have been erected and the "black gold" is being pumped by the Standard Oil company on the Sam Kraemer property.

Many attractive homes have been built by the property owners, although none are as pretentious as the old Yorba home.

Orange growing is the principal industry but there are some walnut groves. Hay and barley are grown for the stock used on the ranches. A few vineyards are cultivated.

Oranges Kept at Low Temperature

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—Oranges can remain in a temperature nine points below freezing for several hours without getting frost-bitten, according to a series of experiments just completed here.

Oranges were placed in a cold storage temperature of 23 degrees. An orange was removed every hour and it was not until the sixth hour that any trace of ice was discernible.

The experiments were conducted by Walter Hentschke, field man for a local packing company.

WURLITZER COMPANY WILL OCCUPY STEELE BUILDING

What will be one of the finest music stores in Southern California will be established at 420 West Fourth street by the Wurlitzer Music company as the first of a series of music houses in Orange county. A 15-year lease with Joe Steele, owner of the building, has been signed. Remodeling operations are now being conducted by R. C. McMillan, contractor. It is estimated that within 30 days, the music company will be able to move from the temporary store at 407 West Fourth street to the new location. Complete equipment in things musical will be carried in the new store, with the entire stock valued at $50,000, according to H. I. Searles, manager. Ten persons will be employed he said today.

The store will be 120 feet deep with a frontage of 27 feet, making a total of 3240 square feet of floor space available to the company. Special sound proof radio rooms are to be installed in the store.

Immediately upon completion of the local store, the Wurlitzer company will establish branches in Anaheim and Fullerton as the first steps toward a county-wide chain of stores. These stores will augment the chain of more than 600 stores throughout the nation.

tomorrow will occupy a portion of the meeting time. Douglas and President Markel will represent Orange county at the Ventura session.

A program of entertainment is planned for the meeting. Master painters of the county will be guests of the exchange.

SPENCER PLANS $15,000 DWELLING

Fifteen thousand dollars will be expended by Harry Spencer, of 1810 North Broadway, in the erection of a handsome residence at 2531 North Park boulevard. The dwelling will have nine rooms and will be of frame construction. It will occupy ground space 50 by 50 feet. The contract has been let to Joe Hancock, of El Modena.

Lloyd Juden, of 818 South Garnsey street, has commenced the erection of a residence and a garage at the same address. The cost will aggregate $3000.

Dr. W. F. Kistinger, of 821 South Main street, has authorized Maynard and Mathews to construct a residence and a garage at 1120 West Seventeenth street. The cost is estimated at $4000.

Contractor R. C. McMillan has started work on the juvenile home garage, the cost being estimated at $4271.

BUILDERS' QUERIES ANSWERED

By Southern California Chapter Associated General Contractors

Q. How may the exterior brick walls of my home be cleaned?

A. When cleaning face brick walls it is necessary to first thoroughly hose down the surface before applying the acid solution. By saturating the wall with water, penetration of the acid is prevented. Acid ordinarily should be one part of muriatic acid to 20 parts of water. After scrubbing, again hose the wall thoroughly to remove all the acid. If the acid is allowed to remain in the pores or on the surface of the brick, it will attract the iron contained in the face brick and discolor the surface. If for some reason discoloration should develop, such discoloration will be found to be a thin coating of ferrous chloride. This coating is soluble and can be removed by spraying or brushing the building or wall with an alkaline solution of potassium carbonate and water. Use enough potassium carbonate powder to make the water feel soapy to the fingers. To assure best results this solution should be applied when hot. The solution neutralizes the acid, loosens the green scale and by chemical action turns it to a white powder which will blow off with the wind. It must be remembered, however, that potassium carbonate will ruin paint and discolor metal. The application of this solution must be restricted to the fact brick surface.

Q. Is a patented shingle roofing practical and how often should it be painted or stained?

A. Patented roofing gives excellent service if properly applied. The grade of paint or stain used will determine just how long a time should elapse before repainting.

M'KAY TO BUILD NEWPORT COURT

William McKay, exalted ruler of the local lodge of Elks and circulation manager of the Register, has completed plans for the erection, in units, of a two-story, 14-apartment apartment court on the northeast corner of Third street and Central avenue, East Newport Beach. It became known today. The completed structure, it is estimated, will cost approximately $20,000.

Kidder and Ship, local contractors, have been given the contract for building the first unit of four apartments, and construction work started yesterday. The apartments will be modern in every particular and in a location that will make them popular.

The court will face on Third street and will be built on two lots having a total frontage of 60 feet on Third. The lot has a depth of 70 feet along Central avenue. McKay expects to add units each year until the scheduled building program has been carried out.

Weight Computed In Piano Playing

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—The harmonious flow of musical notes can now be estimated in pounds and tons, with a far greater output for the nation than any mineral or product in the world.

In a recent test, Miss Virginia Cox, San Francisco pianist, demonstrated that a piano player of average "touch" strikes 300 chords a minute with an average pressure of five pounds to each chord. It takes four minutes to play Chopin's "Valse in G Sharp." That makes 1200 chords, or a total of 6000 pounds, or three tons of music in three minutes. An ordinary pair of butter and egg weighing scales placed on the piano was used to test the volume of playing.

Miss Cox is a small person, physically, yet she produces more volume of music than a hard rock miner or convict in turning out minerals or in breaking rocks.

CHURCH HEADS IN RETREAT ON BALBOA ISLAND

A three-day retreat for synodical and presbyterial officers of the Los Angeles presbytery opened at Mar Casa, headquarters for Presbyterian religious and educational activities on Balboa Island, it was reported today by Mrs. H. A. Allen, president of the missionary society of the First Presbyterian church, of Santa Ana.

Representatives from 38 women's missionary societies from all sections of Southern California and of many guilds and girls' organizations are attending the retreat, it was reported today.

The meeting is in charge of Mrs. David M. Thomas, president of the Los Angeles presbytery, and Mrs. R. W. Cleland, honorary president of the presbytery.

The program yesterday was devoted to guilds and missionary societies of Orange county and to the synodical officers. Programs today and tomorrow will be devoted to the presbyterial officers of Southern California.

Many delegates from the various organizations of Presbyterian churches in Orange county are attending the retreat.

DRY AGENTS MUST NOT BREAK LAWS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Law-breaking by the government to catch lawbreakers must cease, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today warned all prohibition administrators and agents.

Mellon admitted he was surprised when he learned of such activities of prohibition agents as the operation of the Bridge Whist club, in New York, where liquor was sold in order to trap bootleggers and rum runners.

At first, he did not believe the charges were true, he said. Investigation, however, proved such activities were widespread in prohibition work.

In large organizations like the prohibition unit, the bounds are frequently overstepped by agents whose zeal is commendable, but whose principles are wrong, Mellon said.

"It has never been the policy of the government to do anything illegal to apprehend illicit persons," Mellon emphasized, finding that some prohibition agents had been discharged for such overzealousness.

BIG OFFENSIVE ON MICE WILL START

TAFT, Jan. 27.—The final offensive on the hordes of mice in the Buena Vista lake basin region will start within a day or two, when a force of 15 or 20 men, with a camping outfit, starts a systematic poisoning campaign in the basin.

E. Piper, Washington, D. C., mouse extermination expert, said today.

"The main migration of mice from the basin has ended and our efforts will now be concentrated on the source of the mice. The lake basin, with an area of 30,000 acres, will be gone over systematically by a force of men, who will cover the ground with poisoned grain," Piper said.

Although the major migration of mice has ended, there is a possibility of another movement of mice out of the basin, the extermination specialist said, although, if it occurs, it will not be as serious as the past one.

WINE BRINGS CUT IN TAX, SAYS REED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Wealthy men "win and dine" tax officials of the treasury and they negotiate with them for refunds, Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, charged in the senate today, opening the fight for a 10 per cent tax refund on taxes payable this year.

"These officials," Reed said, "are wine and dine and thereupon hearings are held and negotiations carried on with these individuals."

Reed said William Boyce Thompson, prominent Republican leader, "had a hearing before a clerk and when these two men had come out of the room, Thompson's tax had been cut $520,000."

"That sort of business is appalling," he continued. "I have heard of other cases, but they were not given in sworn testimony, so I won't tell of them here."

"In all these large transactions, there should be a safeguard interposed for money paid out in large sums."

Huge Bank Merger Approved by Wood

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—Another huge banking coup was scored today by interests connected with the Bank of Italy, when consolidation of the Liberty bank, of San Francisco, and the Bank of America, in Los Angeles, was approved by Will C. Wood, state superintendent of banks.

Articles of incorporation for the new concern, to be known as the Liberty Bank of America, call for a $50,000,000 capitalization.

"Controlling stock of the new institution will be owned by the stockholders' auxiliary corporation, which in turn is owned by the principal stockholders of the Bank of Italy," President James A. Badgalupi, of the Bank of Italy, explained.

New Members of Costa Mesa Club Tendered Party

COSTA MESA, Jan. 27.—A reception was held at the home of Mrs. R. G. Roberts, president of the Costa Mesa club Wednesday afternoon, honoring the new members of the club. Fourteen of the 16 new members were present. Forty-six persons, who were members of the club prior to 1927, called during the afternoon.

Announcements were made of the card party to be held at the clubhouse February 1. Bridge and 500 will be played. Mrs. F. P. Wells and Mrs. F. Swales will be hostesses. On February 4, the Friday Afternoon club will open its session at 1 p. m., with an arts and crafts luncheon. Miss S. Sweet, of Santa Ana, will be the art instructor for the session being formed and will be present at the luncheon with many samples of work planned for this season.

Mrs. J. Henry, of Garden Grove, county art chairman, will also be present.

Mrs. George Merrick and Mrs. E. A. Randall poured tea during the afternoon.

Mrs. R. G. Roberts, president; Mrs. E. A. Randall, vice president; Mrs. George Merrick, recording secretary; Miss M. Taylor, corresponding secretary, and Miss A. C. Flumer, treasurer, were in the receiving line.

ACTION ON BOULDER MEASURE DELAYED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Representative Snell, Republican, New York, chairman of the house rules committee, reiterated today that action upon a rule giving the Swing-Johnson Boulder dam bill a preferential status had been held in abeyance until interested parties have conferred further.

He emphatically denied reports that the committee had shelved the measure for the season.

"What we are hoping for," said Snell, "is a seven-state compact, instead of one ratified by four states. It seems that the only equitable arrangement to make for division of the waters of the Colorado river is one in which all seven states are involved."

Snell indicated postponement of action by the committee was ordered to give Representative Swing, Republican, California, co-author of the bill, and Representatives Leathem, Democrat, Utah and Hayden, Democrat, Arizona, its bitterest opponents, opportunity to negotiate further to remove objections and clarify amendments.

VETERANS OF 91ST ADVISED OF REUNION

Comrades of the Ninety-first division, A. E. F., today were looking forward to next Wednesday night in anticipation of the renewal of many friendships on the occasion of the annual reunion of the division, scheduled to be held in Patriotic hall, 1816 South Figueroa street, Los Angeles. The reunion will open with dinner to be served at 7 o'clock.

George Platt, of this city, today received advice of the date of the reunion and announced to Santa Ana members of the Ninety-first Division association that reservations for the dinner should be made in advance. Santa Anans should make reservations with Platt, at the Platt Auto service, Third and Bush streets.

Marco Hellman will be one of the dinner speakers, according to information received by Platt.

The annual reunion is one of the big events in the lives of men who were identified with the division in the World war and it is expected that every member residing in the Southland will be present.

FIELD WORKER TO ADDRESS REALTORS

Ed Martell, of Long Beach, field man of the California Real Estate association, representing the division of salesmen, will be a speaker at the meeting tomorrow of the Santa Ana Realty board, it was announced today by Carl Mock, president of the board.

The division is a new creation of the state body and salesmen and brokers will be keenly interested in discussion by Martell of activities of the division.

EAT THE THEATRE

Reed Howes and Virginia Brown Faire in a scene from "Wings of the Storm," current attraction at the West Coast-Walker theater.

YOST BROADWAY

There is more than one way of "marrying for money."

Doris Kenyon demonstrated a novel way last night in the premiere of "Ladies at Play," which was voted high grade entertainment by a happy spirited audience at the Yost Broadway.

One way to marry for money, the film shows, is to marry a pauper who you can inherit under a trick will.

That was the predicament Ann Harper found herself in when her uncle left her $6,000,000 on condition that she marry immediately—and marry a man who met the approval of two spinster aunts, cut off with a few dollars by the same testament.

Ann looked about her in the New York hotel, where she and her aunts had come from a quiet little New England town to hear the reading of the will, and selected a young hotel clerk as the most promising candidate.

But the clerk, capably played by Lloyd Hughes, was not acceptable to the aunts, so Ann tried to force her hand by pretending to compromise herself with him. That failing, counter attacks by trying to compromise her aunts instead, and there the merry-making comes in.

Under the sly chaperonage of two lobby loafers, the two Puritanical aunts are taken on a tour of the town, winding up, slightly intoxicated (they thought it was grape juice) in a gay cabaret.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Mount Ranier, one of the most picturesque peaks of the Pacific Northwest, is the locale of the exterior of "Wings of the Storm," which closes at the West Coast-Walker theater tonight.

Here in this region of perpetual snow-topped mountains with its wild beauty of timbered slopes and evergreen meadows, stirring scenes of the thrilling drama are enacted with Virginia Brown Faire, Reed Howes and William Russell the central figures.

Here, too, the weakling police dog puppy grows to a husky, full-sized animal, living his life of romance and intrigue, the same as any human might.

Director Blystone, who has many important Fox Films productions to his credit, is said to have not only added new directorial honors to his list of successes, but he has also achieved a great scenic masterpiece in "Wings of the Storm."

YOST THEATRE

"That Model from Paris," current attraction at the Yost theater, is a picture that holds one's interest from start to finish.

The story, as it unfolded on the screen, tells of a little, plain girl who had not kept up with the times in so far as bobbed hair and cosmetics were concerned, who was suddenly thrust into a world of beautiful women and gay men, only to find herself a very much sought after young lady.

Marceline Day, who plays the title role is beautiful, charming and a screen play of great promise. Bert Lytell, always a favorite, is seen in one of his best roles, while the rest of the cast, including Eileen Percy, Ward Crane, Miss Dupont, Crawford Kent and Nellie Bly Baker, are well cast.

Commission Calls Final Conference On Main Planning

The planning commission tomorrow afternoon will hold its final conference with residents of North Main street for consideration of the point as to how far north the street should be opened to business enterprises.

The conference will be held in the city council chambers and will begin at 3:30. Property owners on the street are urged by Clara Cushman, secretary of the commission, to be present.

Property owners are divided in opinion as to whether the street should be zoned for business to Santa Clara avenue or to Washington avenue, it is said.

The commission is nearly ready to make its final recommendations to the city council as to zoning areas and it is expected that decision by the body on the North Main street situation will be made following the conference.

U. S. Dry Agents Buy Many Drinks

PORTLAND, Jan. 27.—How many drinks per conviction? That question arose in the minds of many spectators in federal court here when a pair of dry officers testified that, so far as they were concerned, the average was high.

The two officers admitted, in answer to a question by the judge, that they purchased a total of 60 drinks in securing evidence necessary for the conviction of a man and woman bootlegger.

Several of the drinks, it was admitted, were purchased as treats for other persons, but the agents personally consumed most of them.

SKYSCRAPER IN LONG BEACH IS CRUX OF FIGHT

An epitaph to the ambition of a farmer to own a skyscraper was being written today in Superior Judge E. J. Marks' court, where the suit brought by Knute B. Norswring, of Fullerton, against W. D. Mitchell and the Markwell Building company, of Long Beach, was on trial.

Norswring is endeavoring to extract himself from a deal by which he expected to trade three ranches and some other property, of large value, for the six-story Markwell building, which stands in the heart of Long Beach, adjacent to the Pine avenue pier. The building now is known as the Jergens Trust building, that concern having supplanted Norswring as a purchaser.

The suit filed by Norswring not only demands rescission of the contract he signed with Mitchell, so that he can regain unclouded title to his ranches, but he also seeks judgment for $50,000, which he claims he loaned to Mitchell in connection with their transaction.

Says Building Already Sold

According to Norswring, he was prepared to go through with the exchange, when he discovered that Mitchell already had sold the building to a Glendale purchaser. Realizing that Mitchell could not legally sell it again to Norswring, the rancher started looking for a way out. But about the time he filed the suit now being heard, newspapers announced the sale of the building to the Jergens Trust company, of Long Beach, for a figure reported to be $300,000.

Norswring's property, which figured in the proposed exchange, included 254 acres of land, consisting of 10-acre, 30-acre and 214-acre tracts, respectively, besides property on Hope street, Los Angeles.

His suit is being vigorously contested by Mitchell, who is represented by Attorneys Youngworth, McLean and Hartman, of Long Beach. Attorneys Holcomb and Holcomb, of Los Angeles, and Head, Rutan and Scovel, Santa Ana, represent Norswring. The trial may last a week, it is said.

Gives Recital of Deal

Norswring, Mitchell, H. C. Waup, John M. Kemmerer and H. L. Ustick already have been called to the witness stand by the plaintiff to detail their knowledge of the deal. Norswring gave but a general recital of the proposed exchange, leaving the more minute details of what happened to Ustick, who appeared to act as his representative.

Conferences in Fullerton, last September 16 and in Long Beach, later, were described in an effort to reach the representations made by the two property owners and their understanding of what was agreed upon.

IMMIGRATION PROBE ON YOUNG DENIED

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—The office of the U. S. immigration commissioner for Southern California denied here today that it was investigating the manner in which George Young, Catalina channel conqueror, entered this country from Canada.

The denied followed reports that Young and his former pal, Bill Hastings, might be deported for evading the provisions of the immigration act.

"The only information we have about Young and Hastings was contained in an unsigned letter, asking the status of the two boys," Assistant Commissioner Joseph Conaty said. "We are not investigating the legality of their stay in Southern California and do not anticipate such action."

HEAT Your Home With Electricity

The same easy push of a button which brings you light for your home and power for your washing machine now furnishes heat for your home. Electricity will heat one room or your entire house. It gives gentle warmth or a flood of heat as you choose.

Electrical air heating has had a great development during the past few years. In some communities it is used almost exclusively. One of the largest apartment buildings in Los Angeles is heated entirely by electricity.

Electricity is clean. It is convenient. It is safe. It is healthful. Electrical air heating systems are cheaper to install than any other method giving comparable results. Cheap power rates make operation costs low.

No more soot and dirt. No more unpleasant odors. No more fuel to carry or store. No more ashes to dispose of. These are comforts of electrical air heating. Automatic controls will turn your heat on or off whenever you wish—or keep your rooms at constant temperature. Properly installed electrical heating systems eliminate cold floors and drafts.

And proper engineering is part of the purchase price of electrical heating equipment. Whatever the nature of your installation, satisfaction is guaranteed.

Your local Edison office is ready to give you any advice or information you may wish. There you may have for the asking (or by sending a postcard) a copy of "Electrical Air Heating," a booklet of valuable information.

LYMAN J. GAGE CLOSE FRIEND OF S. A. ARTIST

Probably no one in Santa Ana knew Lyman J. Gage, secretary of the treasury under Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt, who died yesterday, in his Point Loma home, near San Diego, better than did Jack Fisher, Santa Ana commercial artist and cartoonist, holder of numerous medals for bravery in action in the World war.

Following the close of the war, Fisher was based in San Diego, suffering from the effects of wounds and gas, and it was through the influence of Mr. Gage that Fisher was discharged five months in advance of his regular expiration time and was invited to be a guest in the Gage home.

Nearly every day, until his nineteenth birthday anniversary, former secretary of the treasury drove his own automobile to San Diego, a distance of eight miles, and spent the daylight hours with his friends in the Cuyamaca club. On his nineteenth birthday, he gave up driving his car, Fisher said.

Gage, despite his advanced years, kept up-to-date in all his reading and could discuss, with keen intelligence, the latest developments in the sport world or the newest brand of philosophy.

Fisher had a great deal of respect and admiration for Mr. Gage and news of his death was a source of much sorrow to him.

A cartoon of Gage by Fisher was published in a San Diego paper and brought a compliment from his benefactor, the Santa Ana war veteran and artist revealed.

GARDEN GROVE

GARDEN GROVE, Jan. 27.—The Alamos P. T. A. will hold its regular monthly meeting in the school auditorium Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The program will include a round table discussion on "Why Do We Send Our Children to School?" The president, Mrs. Schackelford will be in charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Ben Day will entertain the C. C. club at her home, Feb. 20. Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McLeod attended a family dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Chase, in Long Beach, Sunday evening. Covers were laid for 20 relatives.

Mrs. John Lee entertained at dinner, Sunday in honor of her husband's birthday anniversary. Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Terlater, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. John Osborne, of Fullerton; Mrs. Frank Wolfe, of Santa Ana, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Westhe and daughter, visited Mr. and Mrs. Milage Ingram at Chino, Sunday. Mrs. Wittenhouse, of Santa Ana, was a dinner guest of Mrs. T. E. Niles, Wednesday.

A birthday dinner was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dukes Saturday, in celebration of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Dukes. Guests included, Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Rice, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Butcher and sons, Leland and Bobbie, of San Diego, and Mrs. W. G. Rice, of Hanford.

Mrs. Etta Wooders, of Redwing Falls, Minn., is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Phinny.

Mrs. Wayne Holt and two children and Mrs. Winifred German were luncheon guests of Mrs. Emmet Smith, Tuesday. Mrs. W. G. Rice of Hanford, left Sunday for San Diego, after spending ten days at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Dukes. Mr. and Mrs. Minor Coats and two sons, of Hawthorne, and A. Pasco, of Pasadena, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Coats, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Morrill were called to Corona, Tuesday evening, by the illness of Mr. Morrill's mother, Mrs. Mary Morrill.

One dozen light brahma chickens and a large rooster were stolen from J. P. Ritter, Monday night. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dooling have moved to Fullerton.

Mrs. A. Van Vranken and daughter, Miss Mae, spent Wednesday in Los Angeles.

Mrs. L. A. Young was a Los Angeles visitor, Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Knapp entertained Mr. and Mrs. George Attig, of Sibley, Iowa, at dinner, Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Attig are spending the winter in Pasadena.

Miss Ethel Rice, of Los Angeles was a recent visitor at the home of her sister, Mrs. Fred Dukes.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. McLeod, of Clarence, Iowa, who are spending the winter in Pasadena, are guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McLeod.

The Queen Esther circle, of the Methodist Episcopal church, met at the church, Monday evening, for the regular monthly meeting. A pot-luck supper was enjoyed. Following the supper, Miss Francis Bragg presided over a short business session.

Miss Lova Holt and Miss Velda Barnes, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Brown, of San Bernardino, Miss Virginia Elam, Miss Florence Trapp, Miss Myrtle Winters and Fred Winters, of Anaheim, spent the week-end at the Winters' cabin at Lake Arrowhead.

Mrs. J. W. Steele and daughter, Miss Ruth, visited Mrs. Joe Darby at Long Beach, Tuesday.

10-DAY REVIVAL TO BE CONDUCTED HERE

Evangelist William Black, who will conduct a revival at the Four Square Gospel tabernacle.

Santa Anans who have "listened in" on radio programs from Angeles temple will be interested in the announcement, today, by Pastor Anna D. Britton, that Evangelist William Black will conduct a 10-day revival in the Four Square Gospel tabernacle, Fairview avenue and Sycamore street, beginning Sunday.

The evangelist will be assisted by his wife, who is a gifted soloist.

"Of Irish parentage, Evangelist Black has all the characteristics of Irish wit and humor, which he uses with telling effect in the presentation of the Gospel message," said a member of the church.

Excursion Will Be Conducted to Film Properties

The B. P. Hargrave organization will conduct a free excursion from Santa Ana and Orange to their new First National tract in the North Hollywood-Burbank district next Sunday, January 30, starting from Orange county at 9 a. m.

The trip will be of an educational nature, giving those who go as guests of the company an insight into the growth and development of the new district.

Already studios, including the Richard Talmadge, Donald Parker, Lasky and First National either have optioned or acquired sites in the San Fernando valley district.

The First National already has erected a $2,000,000 plant, one of the largest studios in the world. J. M. Williams, Santa Ana manager for the Hargrave organization, is making his headquarters in the Santa Ana hotel. "We firmly believe that the new tract will become another Hollywood," he said. "The new First National tract lies between the Lasky ranch and the First National studios."

"As the number of our guests is limited to fifty, it will be well to make early reservation. Lunch will be served by the company at the property."

Police News

O. I. Northrup, 422 East Chestnut street, reported the theft of a motometer from his automobile, while it was parked near the high school, last night.

An automobile horn was stolen from the machine of Ben Hart, 1815 Valencia street, while the car was parked near Third and Ross streets, yesterday, according to a report filed with police.

COMMUNISTS' NEST FOUND BY SOFIA POLICE

SOFIA, Jan. 27.—The police recently discovered a further secret organization of Communists with headquarters in Plovdiv (Philippopolis) and Pazarjik, under the direction of a central committee in Sofia. The organization had planned to extend the area of its activities to other capitals of departments in order to reunite and reorganize for the purpose of conspiracy the remnants of the Communist party in this country.

The execution of this task included the provision of facilities for the escape of imprisoned Communists and for their flight to foreign countries and the encouragement of political brigandage as a means of spreading terror and of obtaining resources.

As the conspiracy was still in its infancy, it does not appear that more far-reaching measures had yet been contemplated. About 80 arrests were made in Plovdiv and Pazarjik, and supplies of bombs, revolvers and rifles apparently intended for the equipment of the brigands were seized.

Police investigations led to the discovery of secret channels by which the conspirators communicated with the central revolutionary committee of Agraro-Communist refugees in Yugoslavia, as well as other means of communication with the Greek and Turkish frontiers.

The police regard the organization as a result of the Bolshevik conference held last summer in Vienna to discuss the resumption of active conspiracy in the Balkans.

50 Present At Mesa P.-T. A. Party

COSTA MESA, Jan. 27.—Some 50 women of the community attended the P.-T. A. mutual benefit department party at the R. Viele home Wednesday afternoon.

USE OLD HORN
HONOLULU, Jan. 27.—A slender coaching horn brought to the islands 40 years ago from England and presented to Hawaii's last king, was used to sound calls in a recent flagstaff dedication at the Oahu Golf and Country club. The horn was used years ago on one of the famous coaches in which the gentry rode out from London.

SPORTS
OF ALL SORTS

Despite Mr. C. C. Pyle, and to some measure thanks to him, the All England Lawn Tennis and Croquet club is looking forward to a happy and fruitful year. Plans for the Wimbledon championships are already underway, and notice has been given that applications for reserved seats are being received.

Wimbledon officials expect that all records in the demands for seats will be broken this year. They base this prediction on the belief that Wimbledon is this year coming into its own again.

The history made last year in foreign tennis circles is responsible. Rene Lacoste, a European and a favorite at Wimbledon, became world's champion, and Bill Tilden, the old master who, by his absence from Wimbledon during the past few years, transferred tennis prestige from England to America, is coming over for vengeance. They will both play at Wimbledon.

This means that Wimbledon will again take place in men's tennis. Gene Borota, Lacoste's great rival, will be there, and also Cochet, the little Frenchman who made tennis history by finally engineering the downfall of Tilden and giving the others a chance. Efforts are being made to get Gerald Patterson, the great Australian, to come back to the court where he won fame, and possibly Bill Anderson, a professional career before taking up his tennis racket because he was always disappointed at Wimbledon, and so, if "Little Bill" Johnston, whom Wimbledon fans love and admire, cannot come he will be the one outstanding absentee among the great players.

For the past few years the women players have held the front of the stage at Wimbledon. The personality of Suzanne Lenglen has dominated the entry list.

But Suzanne is no longer an amateur. Wimbledon will not seem the same without her, but it is no secret that there have been many signs of relief over her withdrawal from the amateur ranks. Her colorful temperament clashed with the English notions of amateurism, and she was a cause of great anxiety and disturbance among the officials. As a great drawing card, the only drawing card for two or three seasons, she was allowed certain privileges because she insisted upon having them.

In the absence of Suzanne and Helen Willis the women's championship will be a tame affair. Another interesting feature of the men's play will be the competition of the German players. Don German has swung a racket at Wimbledon since 1914, but the German Lawn Tennis Association was admitted to membership of the International Federation January 1, as the result of a correspondence vote.

Jack Delaney's victory over Bud Gorman and his establishment in the heavyweight division is another instance where cheap contracts have led to a gold mine.

Delaney cost Pete Reilly, his manager, $800. He has already earned $200,000 and is still going strong.

Jack Kearns got Jack Dempsey's contract for nothing in the back room of a Frisco saloon. Jack Sharkey never cost Johnny Buckley a dime and he has made a small fortune already and is gunning for a $100,000 bout with Tunney.

Players representing five countries will participate in the next world's championship 13-2 billiard tournament, to start in Washington March 1. Seven players will enter a round robin schedule which will last 11 days.

The entrants in the competition will be: Willie Hoppe, Welker Cochran and Jake Schaefer, United States; Edward Hogenacker, Belgium; Erich Hagmann, Germany; Felix Grange, present European champion, France; and the Japanese entrant will be Kinsey Matsuyama, world's junior champion, or K. Suzuki, former junior title holder.

TOMORROWSANTA ANA HIGH SCHOOL TO FACE SOUTH PASADENANS IN TWO GAMES HERE TOMORROW

In a game that will climax the sensational prep school athletic career of Chester Siegel, star football, basketball and baseball player, Santa Ana high school meets South Pasadena in basketball in Andrews gymnasium here tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. A contest between the Class C (110-pound) aggregations of the same schools will precede the varsity entanglement.

DONS NOSE OUT
RIVERSIDE IN
30 TO 23 TILT

Santa Ana Junior college was out of the dumps today and maintaining more than passing interest in the Southern California junior college conference standings as a result of its decisive and thrilling, even if close, victory over Riverside in Andrews gymnasium here last night. The score was 30 to 23.

The main event had little for excitement on the preliminary truxes between Lynn Crawford of Santa Ana high school Class C (110-pound) aggregation and a crew of Class C ineligibles, gathered together to afford some practice for the Polyties. The ineligibles even went so far as to outscore the high school regulars, 14 to 13.

Coach Walter Scott's collegians, playing far and away the best basketball they have shown in two weeks, pulled away to an early lead over the invaders and departed from the court for their half-time breathing spell with a 16 to 15 lead. At one time during the first session, the Dons were on the comfortable end of a five-point advantage in the scoring.

The Dons played still better basketball in the first part of the second half and were enjoying a 24 to 17 lead when Keith Rogers, their rought and ready center, and Smith, a substitute who had been playing in the place of the injured captain, "Squeek" Squires, were both disqualified because of personal fouls. Riverside rallied and came up within a point of the Santa Anans before the final whistle sent the boys to the baths.

Farris Edgar, the Dons' keen-eyed forward, found himself again deposited seven field goals and a couple of free tosses within the confines of the Riverside hoops. Labrucherie contributed 10 digits. In the curtain-raiser, the floor work of Preble in the second half was largely responsible for the triumph of the ineligibles over the Polyties.

The scores: (29) Riverside Edgar (13), Farris (11), Campbell Labrucherie (10), Farris (7), Grochow McGee (5), G. (1) Goetting Beall (3), G. (1) Hamilton Substitutions: Santa Ana—Allee for Rogers, Squires for Smith, Riverside—Ridgeway for Canady, Hill for Pryor, Costo for Hill, Muranda for Costo.

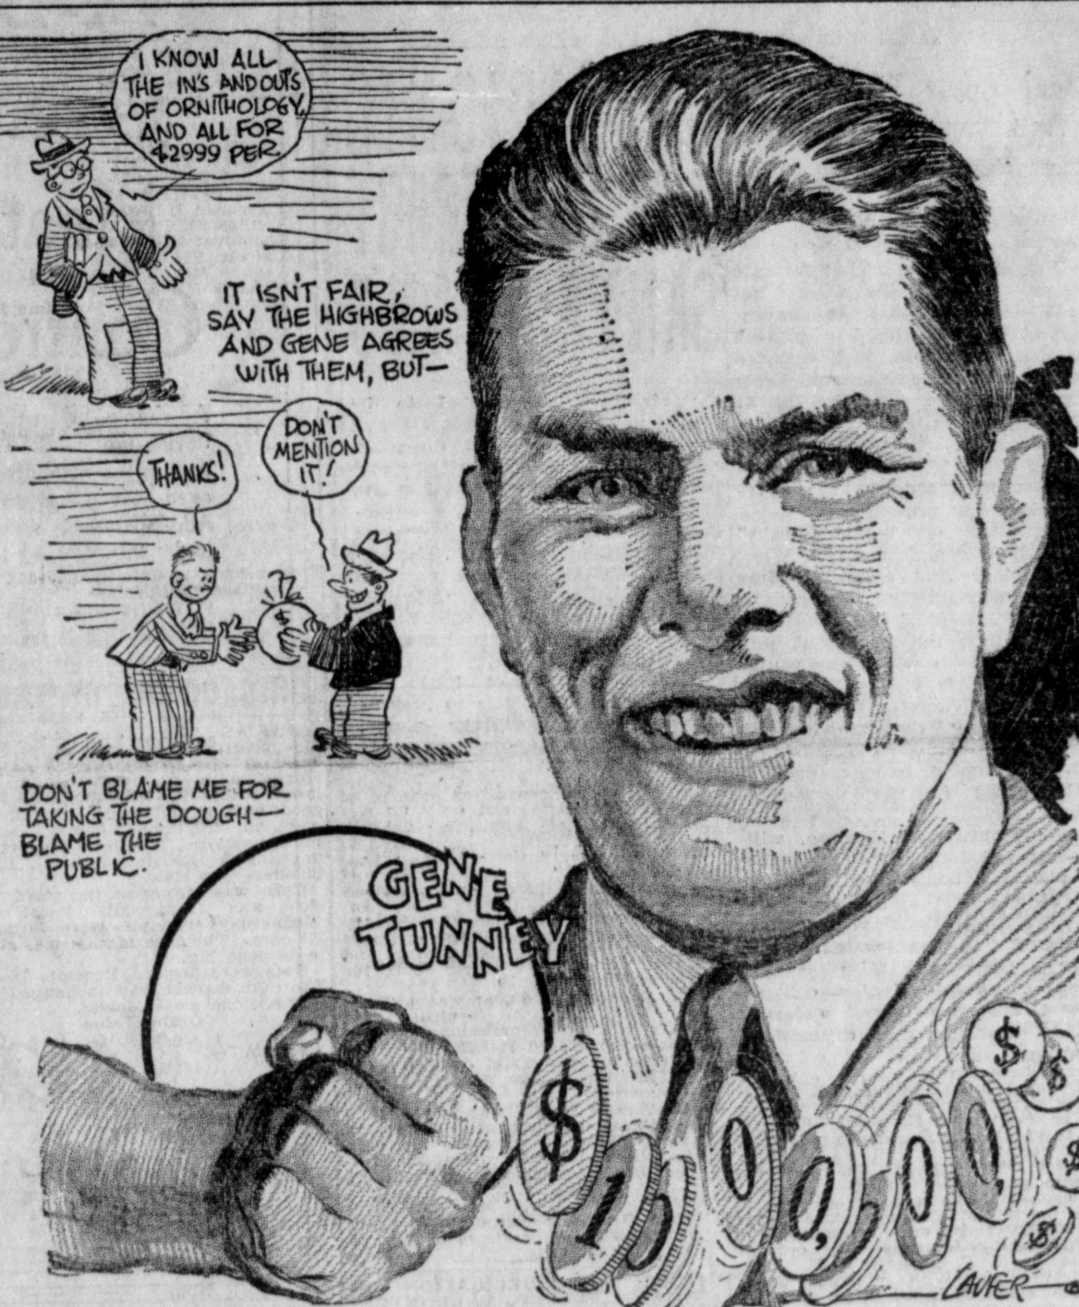

Santa Ana (13) (14) Ineligibles Hall (6), Farris (7), Grochow McGee (5), G. (1) Goetting Beall (3), G. (1) Hamilton Substitutions: Ineligibles—Sprague for Vegely.

WHAT PRICE BOXING! MILLION TOO MUCH?

DEMPSEY WOULD LIKE RETURN
BOUT WITH TUNNEY BUT BALKS
AT ELIMINATION TOURNAMENT

FRESNO, Cal., Jan. 27.—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, reiterated here today that he would not enter an elimination tournament planned by Tex Rickard, New York promoter, for the purpose of obtaining an opponent for Gene Tunney, present champion.

"I do not believe it is at all fair to ask me to enter such a tournament," Dempsey declared. "I am still undecided as to what I will do," he continued. "I shall return to Los Angeles about next Monday and will then go into intensive training again. In three or four months, if I can convince Tunney I am a worthy foe, I believe I will be entitled to a chance to regain the title I lost to him."

Dempsey and his actress wife, Estelle Taylor, arrived here today. Dempsey is anxious to win back his title.

"I think I trained too long for the bout with Tunney," he said. "But I had been out of the ring so long I wanted to be in the best of condition. I will train differently now because I want to win back the championship more than anything else."

"If after three or four months I honestly believe I can make a better showing against Tunney than I did last September, I will go back to New York and try to arrange the match. I do not believe I will go east before then."

Dempsey is confident of victory in the law suits brought against him by Jack Kearns in the east. Kearns is seeking a share of the money Dempsey received for fighting Tunney.

"I want everything brought out in court," he said. "Even if Kearns should stop action on the suits I would not accept such a move because I want everything settled right."

Fields May Get Bouts With Two
Eastern Stars

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—Flattering offers have been wired to Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, and Sid Terris, one of the foremost contenders for that title, to appear here against Jackie Fields, local Jewish boy, according to Matchmaker Wad Wadhams of the Vernon club.

Fields, generally conceded to be the coast's outstanding lightweight, is eager to meet either of the easterners and especially desires to get a crack at Sammy Mandell's crown.

"Is there no justice in the world?" wall the high brows as they read that Gene Tunney is to receive close to a million dollars the next time he defends his heavyweight title.

Noted scientists, college educators, medical experts and the like spend years and years in sacrifice for the good of mankind and receive in return a miserly pittance compared to the figures Gene Tunney can demand.

The question, thoroughly discussed from the viewpoint of educators and others, recently was put to Gene Tunney, one of the persons most vitally concerned.

"Don't you feel that you and other heavyweight boxing champions have been overpaid in the past?" Tunney was asked.

"Possibly so," came Boxer-Philosopher Tunney's surprise answer. "It doesn't seem right, but I don't know that I or any other heavyweight champion can rightly be blamed."

Reflection on Civilization
"To what do you attribute the unusual condition where a heavyweight champion can get almost a million dollars for from 10 to 15 rounds of fighting or boxing?" Tunney deliberated for some time on that one. Then, very slowly, as if picking his words, he replied:

"It's a reflection on our civilization and on economic conditions. It doesn't seem fair that some of our greatest intellectuals, who have given so much in the way of service and knowledge should be paid in some cases not more than $5000 per year for their talents."

"I personally know of one of the greatest pathologists in the country whose services to mankind cannot be reckoned in dollars and cents, who has an annual salary of $3500."

"I know professors in mathematics and other sciences in some of our leading universities who do not receive more than $5000 per year."

Will Draw Down $800,000
"Yet for my next engagement in defense of my title I may draw down as much as $800,000."

"Champion boxers are not to blame entirely for this condition. I believe that if I can attract a two million dollar gate I have earned my share, whatever it may be."

"Since the public is willing to

FROM WILLARD

The largest crowd that ever witnessed a junior high school basketball contest in this city saw Coach Farris Scott's Julia C. Lathrop senior quintette win its second consecutive victory over the Frances E. Willard cagers and clinch the junior high school championship of Santa Ana in Andrews gymnasium yesterday afternoon. The score was 15 to 6.

When the two senior combinations waged warfare last week, the Lathrops played out in front early and stayed off a belated Willard rally to maintain their margin. In the first half, the South Siders were held virtually even in the first two periods but succeeded in finding the basket with regularity in the second half and also made good on most of the free throws that were awarded them.

Wayne Vance, Lathrop's angular center, was high point man with eight points in the brackets opposite his name. Cummings, forward, did most of the point-getting for the North Main street representatives.

This game closed the season for the Julia C. Lathrop squad, not a defeat by a team of its class being charged against it this year. The club dropped three games but they were all to opponents of higher weight and age rating.

The lineup:
Willard Seniors Lathrop Juniors
Cummings (4) Pratt (4) Gaspar
Foster (3) Farris (4) Pratt
Mercurio (2) Farris (4) Pratt
Pinney (1) Farris (4) Pratt
Paul (1) Farris (4) Pratt
Substitutions: Willard—Kneeland for Cummings, Grundum for Foster, Quintana for Mercurio, Gross for Pinney, Farris for Pratt, Mercurio for Quintana, Foster for Kneeland, Cummings for Grundum.

Prince of Wales
Sees Ring Match
In London Slums

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The Prince of Wales invaded the slums again, this time as a fight fan, and almost broke up the affair when the crowd of fans recognized him last night.

Smoking a pipe and thoroughly keen on the battle, the prince sat near the ringside last night among workmen and their wives.

Cheers for the prince shook the ratters and he responded by shaking hands with the fighters and giving a brief address to the crowd.

pay and pay, I would be foolish not to accept.
"But why pick on the champion fighters to prove there is no justice in the world?"

"Take the actors and actresses appearing in the movies today. I understand it is not unusual for a Charlie Chaplin or a Harold Lloyd to receive as much as a million dollars in salary and royalties from a film that is a big hit."

"Many of those stars have no better foundation in an intellectual way than most of the fighters who are drawing down fat purses."

When a boxer gets his money, protests go up from every quarter. "Don't blame the champions entirely for this frenzied finance in sport. Look into our economic conditions for the answer."

ST. GODDARD LEADS IN PAS DOG DERBY

THE PAS, Manitoba, Jan. 27.—Emil St. Goddard and his seven huskies, still fresh from two days of record breaking racing over the Sakatchewan river trail, prepared to better their 20-minute lead over Earl Brydges today in the final killing pace of the Pas dog derby.

Mushers, heretofore, who are considered wise judges of dog and harness, declared St. Goddard could scarcely be beaten, considering the marvelous vitality he has displayed thus far and the excellent condition of his dogs.

Ten below zero weather greeted the "sourdoughs" who have gathered here for the final day of racing.

First Navy Back
Dies After Fall

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 27.—Dr. Moulton K. Johnson, halfback on the first Naval academy team to play in an Army-Navy classic, died from injuries he received from a fall on an icy pavement. The first game was in 1890.

Trojan Cagers Off

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—The University of Southern California basketball squad, with Coach Les Turner in charge, is scheduled to leave for Berkeley tonight for their Coast conference clash with California Saturday night.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creosolium, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creosolium is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creosolium contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creosolium is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

FLETCHER TO FILL NEW TYPE OF ROLE IN COMMUNITY PLAY, "ENTER MADAME"

Madame Lisa Della Robbia (Mona Summers Smith) expresses her amazement to Gerald Fitzgerald, her almost-divorced husband (Warren Fletcher), at a greeting in the form of a wreath of immortelles surmounted by a snowy dove, which has just been delivered to her by the Japanese servant, Tamamoto (Charles Sarsie), in the Community Players' production of "Enter Madame." The wreath has been lent by Madame Della Robbia's rival in the affections of her husband, and forms one of the amusing features of the action of play, which will open at the Temple theater, next Tuesday night, for a four nights' run.

'FIGHTING' BOB SHULER SPEAKS TO KIWANIANS

Faith, courage and "stickability," as they may relate to what any individual may be merchandising, are three important words that every business man should have in his vocabulary. If he would be successful in his pursuit of "health, wealth and happiness," in the opinion of the Rev. Bob Shuler, "fighting" pastor of Los Angeles, as expressed in a short and hurried address at the meeting yesterday of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club.

The pastor evidenced his possession of these words in relating his experience in attempting to reach Santa Ana from Pomona, the recital dealing with misdirection in China, which sent him in a direction opposite to what he should have taken to reach this city and accountable for arrival at the meeting more than half an hour late.

Because of his late arrival the minister had but 15 minutes in which to deliver his address. Under the circumstances he had to "boil down" his remarks and, in doing so, he hit only the high points of remarks intended to impress his auditors with the fact that any individual, exemplifying the three words, could not be defeated in any undertaking.

He went into his private life and experience to emphasize some of his points.

"If you have faith, courage and 'stickability,' nothing on earth can defeat you in anything you attempt," the Rev. Mr. Shuler said in closing his remarks.

Pointing out that faith is supposed to be the possession of everyone who engages in business, the speaker said that he rather would be the agent for a cheap automobile and have faith in that product than have the agency for an expensive car and feel that there was a screw loose in that product.

"Courage is the second big word," commented the pastor. "I am not a pacifist, neither am I for war. I know nothing more pitiful than would be a war of the future, with modern fighting equipment. War would be hellish, yet I pray God the time never will come when we will refuse to fight for justice, for our homes, our families and those things for which our fathers laid down their lives. Let's keep some of that stuff which, in the hearts of our sires, caused them to fight."

"Faith and courage are worthless without 'stickability.' You will have success if you have courage and faith and ability to stick to the game."

J. G. Launer of La Habra, lieutenant governor of the fourth Kiwanis district, paid his first official visit to the Santa Ana club yesterday. He announced plans for four joint meetings of all clubs in the district, which embraces all the clubs in Orange county and the club in Whittier. One or two of the sessions would be designated as ladies' nights.

Local Actor Will Appear As Completely Mature Man of World

It promises to be an interesting experience for seasoned Community Play-goers to see that favorite interpreter of juvenile roles, Warren Fletcher, forsake the characters with which he has pleased countless audiences, and essay a polished, seasoned and completely mature man of the world. But as "Gerald Fitzgerald" in the Community play, "Enter Madame," opening at the Temple theater, next Tuesday, such will be the character Fletcher presents.

It is a far cry from "Laurie" in "Little Women," in which Warren Fletcher first endeared himself to Community Players, to "Gerald Fitzgerald," but those acquainted with the intelligent understanding with which the young man invests his characterizations, have no misgivings as to his ability to portray the middle-aged "Gerald," with a son quite as tall as himself and a daughter-in-law in the offing in the person of "Aline."

"John Fitzgerald," the son, will be portrayed by Emil Foust, who has played a large part in Santa Ana high school and junior college dramatics. His fiancée, "Aline Chalmers," has been trusted to the clever hands of Miss Goldie Jacobson, another junior college student, who has played a large part in dramatic and expression programs.

In drawing the young college students into Community Players, George Gerwing, director, is following his plan to which the scope of the organization and draw into it more and more potential actors all the time. With this in view, he continues to ask anyone interested in such work, to get in touch with him at the Temple theater office, where he may be found any Monday, Wednesday or Friday afternoon.

Patrons are reminded that reserved seats for "Enter Madame" are now on sale at the Santa Ana book store.

COLORED SINGERS HEARD IN CONCERT

A capacity audience last night greeted the Cotton Blossom colored singers from Piney Woods school, Piney Woods, Miss., at Four Square Gospel tabernacle.

Old-time plantation songs, and others were rendered by the negroes, the singers being generous in their response to encores.

Interesting facts concerning the school were told by Mrs. Jones, and she stressed the point that her husband had but $1.50 in cash when he started the institution. She said that the school plant today is valued at $150,000. Approximately 500 colored children attend the school.

"The school exists for the uplift and betterment of the negro race; to qualify the youths for taking their places in the community, and to teach them the principles enunciated by the Man of Galilee," Mrs. Jones said.

"Greek and Latin have taken a back seat, but pupils are being taught how to make the most out of their lives."

Mrs. Jones pointed out that many leading citizens of Santa Ana are annual contributors to the institution, and she explained that the rapid progress of the school has been due to gifts from people in many states in the Union.

CANADAPICNIC WILL ATTRACT SANTA ANANS

Santa Ana is expected to be represented by a large delegation at the thirteenth annual Canadian mid-winter picnic and reunion and fourth annual tourists' field sports carnival, to be held all day Saturday, February 5, in Exposition park and the adjoining coliseum, Los Angeles, according to word received from executives of the Canadian Tourists' society, under whose auspices the annual Southland event is to be held.

In view of the fact that this city's municipal band is to present a special concert at the picnic, many former Canadians, now residing in this vicinity, and their friends are planning to visit the scene of festivities, not only as a representative delegation from this community but to meet "the folk from back home."

Tourist society executives expect a great throng of visitors from outside communities, and have arranged for an all-day program, which will be open to the general public, starting at 9 o'clock in the morning and continuing until 6 p. m. Provincial roll-calls, international speakers, basket picnics, registration of visitors, band concerts and an afternoon's program of sports and games in the coliseum will be among the features of the day.

Emphasis has been placed on the fact that there will be no charge for seats in the coliseum or for parking privileges.

THIEVES RANSACK S. A. TABERNACLE

Vandalism was practiced by thieves, who last night broke into the Four Square Gospel tabernacle, Fairview street, between South Main and Sycamore streets, according to a report filed with the police today.

The thieves climbed on a high fence abutting the building, and broke a window pane. A section of a plaster-board partition was broken out, permitting entrance into the church office, where a section of a roll-top desk was broken. The desk was ransacked.

Nothing was reported stolen, although several rooms in the building were in disorder.

most of the turtles attempt to hibernate by burying themselves in the straw on the floor of their pens at this time of year.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Nathan Forrest

Sketches By Kroesen
Synopsis By Braucher

Forrest was given the acid test in obedience when General Bragg ordered him to invade west Tennessee. At that time Union soldiers overran the district and Forrest had but 2000 men, poorly equipped, meagerly mounted. Forrest set forth. With him it was to act first and comment afterward.

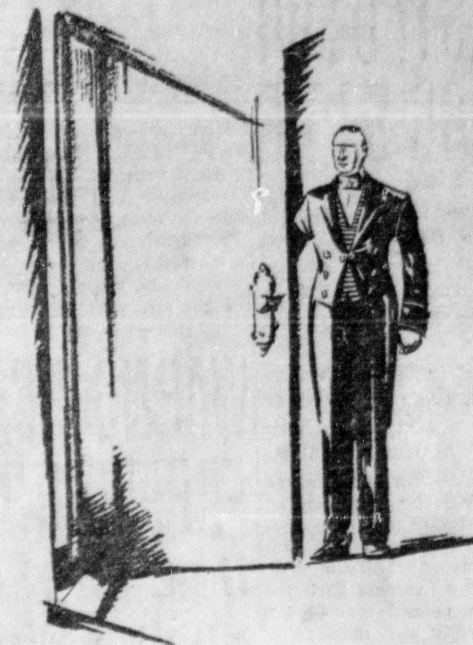

Northward Forrest and his daring raiders swept clear to the Kentucky line, burning bridges, destroying railroads, capturing supplies.

There were hours of bitter struggle, with his men hitched to guns mired in the Obion river, but somehow Forrest "always got out."

Day after day, this Union force or that felt the sting of Forrest's fierce lash. In that mad Tennessee dash he had killed and wounded 1500, captured thousands in supplies, blocked reinforcements from going to Rosecrans in Nashville—even forced General Grant to release his bulldog grip on Vicksburg. A drink of rare distinction to serve when good friends call

WHEN good friends call to grace your home—to sit and talk as good friends will—to dine—to dance—to play a little bridge perhaps... there's no drink in all the world so altogether welcome as a sparkling, bubbling glass of "Canada Dry."

The very appearance of the stately green bottle, with its aristocratic crest and foil, adds a touch of distinction to every occasion. The delicate appealing flavor of the ginger ale itself will charm your taste and tell you something, too, of the matchless purity and quality of this famous drink.

"Canada Dry" is altogether different from every other ginger ale because it is made and mellowed with something of the same expert care as a fine old wine. It is, indeed, The Champagne of Ginger Ales.

THE TINYMITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

While Clowny drifted on the ice, a voice from near at hand, yelled twice, "Hurrah! Hurrah!" And they all turned and saw the Eskimo. He'd run to get a piece of twine, which surely would come in real fine, but what he planned to do with it the Tinies didn't know. "Just watch me close and you will see that I'm as smart as I can be," their friend the furry Eskimo announced in boastful tone. "I may want help, but not just now. I guess I'll get along, somehow, if I just try to work my plan, and work it all alone."

He took the twine and spread it out. Then wrapped it 'round and 'round about. And then 'twas in a circle, they began to see his scheme. He then held one end in his hand, and swung the rest to beat the band. Then, when they least expected it, 'twas hurled across the stream.

And now, the Tinies heard him shout, "The rest of you can help me out. Go over to the other side and hold the rope end tight." The Tinies all began to tear, and in a moment they were there, and hanging to the dangling end with all their main and might.

The twine, of course, spread 'cross the stream. Ah, little did the Tinies dream that Clowny just knew what to do, but he was very smart. He grabbed the twine, right o'er his head, and ere he started out, he said "For goodness sake I surely hope the twine won't come apart."

And then it made the Tinies roar, to see him starting for the shore. Hand over hand he traveled, like a circus artist does. He reached his goal, quite safe and sound, and promptly sat down on the ground to tell them all about his trip, and just how scared he was.

(The Tinymites discover a wooden shack in the next story.)

PARTY TIME

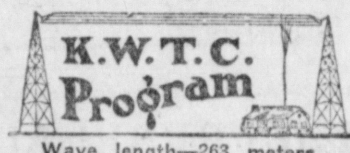

The young girl who goes infrequently to parties wants to make herself look particularly nice for the important evenings. You may say that the girl who goes to parties every night does too, but I find from my letters that the quiet or the hard working girl is the one who writes for special advice about dressing up for social functions. The girl who has many parties either knows all the tricks, or else takes parties as casually as anything that happens during the day.

This is for the party that's a real event! Have the hair shampooed the day before, then it will be fluffy and glossy but not too limp. If waving is becoming, a wave put in the day before will have come out enough to be twice as attractive by the party night. Then, before you are ready to dress, rub the face, neck and elbows with cleansing cream, get into a tub of hot water, and wash off the cream as you bathe.

The hot bath will help and probably save you from rest you. Rub the face and neck vigorously with the bath towel, to get all the cream from the skin that has not been washed off. Rub the face with ice, to bring brilliancy to the eyes and the cheeks. If your skin isn't pretty then, use vanishing cream, wiping the face off a few minutes afterwards, so not too much cream stays in the pores. Rub vanishing cream thickly into the elbows.

HER "MIKE" IS HAVEN FOR BARD

BY VIRGINIA SWAIN
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Katherine Emmet may save Shakespeare for the P. G. Wodehouse generation.

She is undertaking the role of King Canute, in bidding the tide of modernism to advance no farther over the territory belonging to the classics of the stage.

Through her efforts, the jolly Stratford bard may find a refuge in the radio, even though Maugham and Hopwood and Dreiser strut their little time upon the stage, leaving no room for him.

Miss Emmet directs and sometimes plays in the Shakespearean performances broadcast every Sunday evening by station WEAF.

She caters to a potential audience of five millions. Children who have never seen Hamlet in his sable coat behind the footlights, or Juliet on her balcony, may thank Miss Emmet for the chance to see them—without eyes.

Radio Drama for Blind

Radio drama is drama for the blind. One sense—that of hearing—must supply all that the others give in a visible performance. And for this purpose, Shakespeare is the ideal dramatist, says Miss Emmet.

"Consider the Elizabethan stage," she says. "There were no properties, no scenery, only a slight attempt at authentic costume. When a player had a soliloquy or long oration, he stepped out of the action of the scene, advanced to the rostrum jutting out over the pit, and said his piece."

"When Shakespeare said, 'The play's the thing,' he meant the lines, the voice, the diction. Nowadays too many producers distract the audience with spectacular settings and over-elaborate stage business."

Just Like Old Globe Day

"The radio gives you Shakespeare, pure and unadulterated, as in his own Globe Theater three centuries ago."

Radio drama has the other advantage of a cast whose voices and diction may be chosen without regard to looks or age. Here is a refuge for all the aged Juliets who have kept their voices, and the crippled Hamlets who still feel the old flame burning.

Thus far, however, the WEAF company has consisted of popular Broadway stars.

"I think Shakespeare actually benefits by radio," Miss Emmet declares. "We cut it to eliminate the cumbersome changes of scene and the unimportant episodes. Audiences today have tabloid minds, and, whether we like it or not, we must cut the classics to a length that they will tolerate, if we want them to be interested at all. Shakespeare belongs to life—not to the schoolroom. And by talking of him in hushed voices, we have killed him as a living dramatist. "The most touching letters we get are not from the scholars and students, but from older men and women who can't spell his name. He is a totally new discovery for them, and they are delighted."

Katherine Emmet

For educational purposes, also, the Shakespearean performances are valuable. Miss Emmet's plan is to have a radio installed in every schoolroom in America, and to help organize a great radio university giving full courses in academic subjects, and controlled and subsidized by the federal government.

"Radio is a tremendous power that is being sadly abused for commercial ends. Most programs now are ninety per cent trash, designed for an unthinking audience. So long as business firms are allowed to dominate radio, it will not improve. The government will have to take control."

Had Long Orthodox Drill

Miss Emmet began the work of directing modernized radio Shakespeare with a long orthodox training. She is a graduate of Leland Stanford University, and a former member of the Ben Grét company, as well as a colleague of the Barrymores and Guy Bates Post, and a member of the Actors' Theater company.

Her WEAF company is the first to attempt the classics on the "mike." Difficulties are being met and solved every day.

For example, there was the problem of choosing actors whose voices differed enough to make confusion impossible for the blind audience.

Then there were old stage habits to be broken. "The first thing we learn on the stage is to pick up our cues quickly and rush ahead. In the radio plays, this is fatal. I am still struggling to make my cast take a breath before each speech, and thus give the listeners a sign that a new person is speaking."

Distance Is Problem

Then there is the problem of distance. "The radio will record the movements of a speaker about the stage, if left alone. But whenever I direct a character to retreat toward a door, the mechanical men think he is fading out and at once tune up the instrument, so that all voices are still on the same plane. I have to fight monotony constantly."

Radio acting is one of the world's hardest occupations, all the players insist. Nobody but a radio actor knows how much the gust of applause from an audible and visible audience contributes to the show.

Within the gray woolen curtains that drape the walls of the WEAF broadcasting studio, a little band of men and women have learned that the audience is at least half the show, and a brass microphone sucking in their words and giving nothing back is a formidable enemy to fire and feeling and flare, the three qualities that make a good performance.

CIVIC CENTER SUGGESTED FOR WILLARD SITE

As a preliminary step to proceedings leading to the contemplated disposal of the property of the Frances E. Willard junior high school, on North Main street, and the construction of a new junior high school plant in the north section of the city, the city board of education today requested the city board of trustees to confer with the city attorney regarding the practicality of placing the question of acquiring a civic center on the coming April ballot.

The school trustees believe that the grounds of the Frances E. Willard junior high school should be acquired by the city and used as a site for a civic center. Inquiries at the city hall revealed that the city fathers are favorably disposed to the proposition. That is as far as the city can go in the matter, and there are no funds for the purchase of the Main street school property. It was suggested, however, that the city might sell its holdings at Main and Third street and use the proceeds for purchasing the Frances Willard school property.

Such a procedure, it was pointed out, would give the school authorities funds for purchasing a new junior high school site in the north section of the city.

Inquiries at the board of education offices brought out the information that it would be a difficult matter to sell the Frances Willard school property.

As it is neither residence nor business property. On the other hand, it would make an ideal site for a civic center, it was declared.

The need of a new city hall, as well as a municipal auditorium, to house conventions and other assemblies, has been under discussion for some time, it was stated. It was added, however, that before the city authorities can go ahead with any plans along that line, the matter of acquiring a "civic center" must be submitted to the voters.

Berlin Prepares For Increase In Plane Business

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—The Berlin city council has appropriated $100,000 for improvements and additions to Tempelhof field, the largest flying field in Germany, in expectation of an increase in air passenger and freight business of the German air service this spring. The restaurant and waiting room for passengers will be enlarged. The sheds, which now house about 75 planes, will be expanded.

WARNS AGAINST FORFEITURE OF U. S. POLICIES

Former service men are warned not to lose their government compensation life insurance policies by forfeiting them for the small sums they have borrowed, or will borrow on them, in a letter which Frank J. Was, vice president of the First National bank, has written to Commander Jules Markel, of the Santa Ana post, American Legion.

The letter will be read at the post meeting scheduled for tonight, at the Legion hall, on Birch street. Mr. Was points out that the increased value of the policies year after year, to the former soldiers, and explains why there was a misunderstanding in lending money on them at the first of the year. His letter in full is as follows:

May Broaden Acceptance
"The financial machinery was not very well oiled, in preparation for the handling of the advanced service certificates, the first of which became available at the beginning of this year. In consequence, many veterans suffered disappointments, and had a right to feel a dissatisfaction that has since been expressed. The general understanding of the certificates has become better, and it is now apparent that, within a reasonable time, the certificates will be properly recognized everywhere. Our bank accepted them from the men with whom it had been doing business, and the business has been found so satisfactory that we are now discussing accepting them from any veteran who is properly identified.

"There is a disposition on the part of many veterans to think that the certificates are of very little value, and that they were more or less 'bounced' into believing that they were worth more than they now find them to be. The average cash value of the certificates now is $90. This value increases at a rate of approximately 30 per cent each year, which is surely a greater profit than the average man may ever hope to receive on his investments.

"Based on the membership in the Santa Ana Legion post of 400, it gives the local post a present borrowing power of $36,000 for its individuals' needs. It is estimated that there are 1000 veterans in Santa Ana, representing a borrowing power of $90,000. In Orange county, there are said to be about 2500 veterans, representing a borrowing power of $225,000.

Big Increase Is Sure
"Now, we must remember that, in 20 years, these certificates will have increased in value tenfold, so that by multiplying the foregoing figures by 10, one is amazed to find how much actual wealth will have been added to the community, if the members retain their ownership of the certificates.

"We should like that thought to be brought before every veteran in the county, and it is to be hoped that, in every instance, the men will use these certificates for temporary security only, and will not simply cash them in for their present small value and then lose them entirely. Of course, it is impossible for a veteran to lose the benefits from the certificates, because, if the loans are not paid, the government will carry the policy for the man until its maturity, or his death, if that occurs before the maturity of the certificate, but the certificate in the hands of the government removes from the local community the cash value of the certificates.

"We would suggest, therefore, that the Legion posts, everywhere, spread the information about these certificates, and impress on the men, as far as possible, the value of retaining the ownership of them and using them for temporary loan purposes."

Legal Notice
Notice is hereby given that the Board of Trustees of the City of Santa Ana, California, will receive bids up to the hour of 7:30 p. m., February 14th, 1927, for the furnishing of gasoline to the City Street Department of Santa Ana, for a period of twelve months from February 16th, 1927.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

H. B. OIL WELL COMPLETED IN RECORD TIME

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 27.—All drilling records in the local oil fields have been broken here by J. Paul Getty. Getty has just completed a 1000 barrel producer in the town lot section and has oil flowing into the tanks. The well was started 31 days ago.

The well was drilled to a depth of more than 4500 feet and is one of the best wells placed on production in the western section of town for several weeks. The record set up by Getty will be a hard one to equal, according to local oil men, as the usual period to drill a well is about 90 days. H. M. McCumber was in charge of drilling operations at the well.

'3 WISE FOOLS' CAST SELECTED

ORANGE, Jan. 27.—Characters for the faculty play, "The Three Wise Fools," to be presented in the high school auditorium on February 17-18 for the benefit of the high school scholarship fund, as selected at the initial rehearsal last night, will feature F. L. Carver, dramatic instructor at the high school and director of the play, in the leading male role, and Miss Grace Robertson as the leading feminine character.

Carver will portray the role of "Theodore Finley" and Miss Robertson will be cast as "Miss Fairchild." Other players and the roles they are cast in are as follows: "Dr. Richard Gaunt," W. J. Sutherland; "Hon. James Trumbull," Raymond M. Warren; "Mrs. Saunders," Miss Frances J. Hill; "Gordon Schuyler," J. W. Cummings; "Benjamin J. T. Vernon Shippey," "Don Crawshaw," W. H. Lowry; "Toole," a detective, Stewart N. White; "Gray," a servant, George R. Stoner; "Clancy," a servant, Alfred Higgins; "Douglas," a policeman, Charles C. Triplett; a policeman, Al. Livernash.

Rehearsals will be held two nights each week until the week of presentation, it was announced by Carver.

The plot of the "Three Wise Fools" concerns three old and rich bachelors who are faced with the problem of raising a young girl.

Sardine Boats At Newport Beach

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 27.—Sardine fishermen have been operating off the coast of Newport Beach for several nights. Sardine season has been open for some time but the fishing fleet which follows the tiny fish has not visited the coast of Newport Beach for several years. The boats of the fleet are brilliantly lighted.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish and stomach sour?

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! Is coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.

Masons To Hear Talk On Mexico

ORANGE, Jan. 27.—Information on conditions in Mexico, gained through several years residence in the southern republic, will be told the Royal Arch chapter of Masons at the dinner meeting tomorrow evening in the Masonic temple by Leonard Guitan, principal of El Modena schools.

Mrs. Holly Lash Vissel will present her pupils in a musical program as a part of the entertainment, according to Joe Leak, chairman for the occasion.

FUTURE NEWPORT CITIZENS IN FILM

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 27.—J. S. Kudla and his concertina took the spotlight away from even the local pictures at the community social Tuesday night at the Newport church. The pastor, the Rev. W. H. Stockton, has promised that song and story, recitation and musical performance, shall contribute to the entertainment as much as the movies and has been scouting around for talent which he could feature on the programs. Mr. Kudla is one of his "finds."

The concertina is a rather unusual instrument, particularly in Newport Beach, being something like a glorified accordion, all dressed up in silver and mother of pearl, and sounding like an organ. Under Mr. Kudla's clever manipulation, selections with an appealing sweetness.

The recent oil fire was a star feature in the local films, some very good night scenes of the blaze appearing, with others taken the next morning. The reel was the gift of Claude Sweetman.

One of the entrants in the Catalina swim, practicing in the bay at Balboa, was caught in the act, and the audience was given a good chance to see her stroke. A snapshot of Mrs. Naylor, the swimmer, just as she came out of the door of the postoffice, was received with applause. A scene of the Holt baby showing off his new accomplishment of creeping up the front steps at his home, was much enjoyed. Mr. Stockton wishes to get similar pictures of all the babies under three years old in the city, so that he can show a whole reel of "Newport of Tomorrow" some night. He is asking the fathers and mothers of the babies to let him know where these future citizens are, so that he can get his cradle roll film together as quickly as possible.

CORONA DEL MAR

BALBOA ISLAND, Jan. 27.—The Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Walker, of Covina, and a party of friends including Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Holmes, of Port Huron, Mich., were Sunday visitors to the Balboa Palisades club. Other Sunday guests of the club were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Waller, of Woodbury Forest; Mr. and Mrs. Leo B. McGovern, of Balboa, and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Byron, of Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stanton and a party of Red Cross women from Los Angeles were callers at the home of Antea Deraga on Sunday. The Red Cross representatives were taken for a ride in the Stanton's new yacht on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Radcliffe, who have been living in one of F. E. Lewis' houses, leave this week for Palmdale, where they will reside.

Recent guests at the Palisades club were Mr. and Mrs. P. Ball-leaux, of Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Longyear, of Altadena, and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fiske, of Orange.

B. C. Echols and friends from San Gabriel spent Sunday at his cottage here.

The Misses Anna and Rhoda Dickey, of Pasadena, are occupying their cottage here for several days.

Holmes Paul spent the week-end with his family here. He was accompanied by a friend, C. Bromberger, formerly of Texas, but at present a resident of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Henzie, of Sierra Madre; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burlew, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Val Miller, of Sierra Madre, were week-end visitors here.

A baby daughter weighing 10 pounds was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Noonan last Friday at their home on Iris avenue.

Jack Beckett, of the Balboa Palisades club, spent the past week-end at San Gabriel.

Mr. and Mrs. Strader, of Pasadena, and the James MacGillivray, of Los Angeles, were recent visitors to this locality.

Mrs. H. Cardozo Sloan is at home again after being in Villa Park for some time, caring for her sister, who is ill.

Mrs. A. West-Cove, of Tustin, was a week-end visitor with her daughter, Mrs. Holmes Paul.

The host and bathhouse which is being constructed for the Balboa Palisades club is expected to be completed this week. The date of the opening will be early in February.

Antea Deraga went to Los Angeles last Wednesday on business. Friday went to Long Beach to be present at a meeting in honor of Commander Byrd, who talked of his recent flight to the north pole.

Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Nesbit, of Los Angeles, were recent visitors with Captain T. W. Sheffield at the bathing pavilion.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Moses, of Hollywood, spent a few days of this week in their cottage here.

INCREASE IN POPULATION OF ORANGE SHOWN

ORANGE, Jan. 27.—An increase in population in Orange appears evident from the number of new meters installed in apartments and residences by the Southern California Edison company, according to data given out by George Gilmore, local manager. Since January 1 there have been 269 meters installed, according to Gilmore's report. Figuring these persons to the meter, Gilmore estimates that the population in Orange has increased 807 people.

During November and December, like increases were noted by the Edison official. In November, there were 184 idle meters as compared with 432 for last January. In December, 79 new connections were made.

A few of the persons who have asked electric meter connections since January 1 as named by Gilmore in his report are as follows: Muriel DeVaughn, 394 North Center; W. J. Gregory, 375 South Shaffer; J. F. Young, 349 South Lemon; M. A. Wilson, 102 North Center; Maude Walters, 317 North Center; J. F. Borg, 253 South Lemon, apartment 7; Mrs. Dean Bonnett, 330 River avenue; Alex Smith, 215 North Orange; J. T. Newland, 283 North Olive; J. F. Parker, 119 River avenue, apartment 1; J. O. Richmond, 253 South Lemon.

Newport Becomes Permanent Home Of Power Cruiser

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 27.—Another boat entered Newport bay yesterday to make its permanent berth here. The boat is the "Vamatochi," a 30-foot power cruiser owned by Eugene F. Day, of Riverside.

The boat is of unique design. A feature of the cruiser is the exceptionally large cockpit providing living quarters of exceptional dimensions for a boat of its size. The boat is powered by a 66-horsepower six-cylinder motor and is said to be able to turn about 12 knots an hour.

'Mother' Subject At Lions' Meeting

ORANGE, Jan. 27.—"Mother" was the subject of a short talk by Attorney C. De Longy at the annual ladies' night meeting of the Lions' club at the I. O. O. F. hall last night. The same topic was several times discussed by members of the wives and mothers present at the meeting.

Entertainment featured the Orange male quartet, composed of Chad Robinson, Elmer Engstrom, Herbert Batterman and Ray Walker. Chad Robinson also sang several solos. Musical solos were played by E. M. Sundquist of Santa Ana, pianist, and Mrs. Pankhurst, reader. The Higgins Brothers orchestra and Edith Darnwood, pianist, furnished music for dancing.

SPRINGDALE

SPRINGDALE, Jan. 27.—Mr. and Mrs. George Gerhart motored to Beach Sunday taking with them a party of friends including Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wentzel and daughter, Juanita, Velma and Roy Wentzel, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Fogie and granddaughters. They were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jenkins, of Los Angeles, and with Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd, of Long Beach, and brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Gerhart, were the guests of Mrs. Gerhart's nephew, Amos Brothers, aboard the U. S. S. New Mexico, of which crew he is a member.

Mrs. George B. Crane and daughter, Mrs. Arthur Giesler, of Greenville, and niece, Miss Valma Wentzel, were in Los Angeles Monday. They went as guests of Mrs. Crane's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Cline.

A number of friends from the Springdale district, attended on Tuesday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Stella Dimock, of Smeltzer, which was held from the parlors of Smith and Tutill in Santa Ana. Among those attending were Mr. and Mrs. George Crane, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mallett, Charles Houser, Mr. and Mrs. William Kettler and Mrs. Fred Verover.

Alvin Hurst, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hurst, has been ill since Sunday.

The California Petroleum corporation which put down the wells on the Buck ranch, is preparing to start Buck No. 3. Four hundred barrels per day is the amount taken from the two producing wells.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Young had as their guests Saturday, Mr. George Robbins, of Claremont. Mr. Robbins is a professor in the Pomona college and Mrs. Robbins was a schoolmate of Mrs. Young. In the afternoon the two couples drove over to Huntington Beach, where they called upon a former schoolmate of Mrs. Robbins, who resides in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Graham motored Tuesday to Los Angeles, where Mr. Graham went on business. Going by way of Puente, Mr. and Mrs. Graham were accompanied to the city from there by their daughter, Mrs. Virgil Lyons and her small daughter.

A case of chickenpox has been in the Springdale district, the small daughter of the Portuguese dairyman on the McFarlane ranch having been out of her classes as a result of having the disease.

L. A. CORPORATION SECURES CONTROLLING INTEREST IN ORANGE COMMERCIAL BANK

ORANGE, Jan. 27.—The American commercial corporation, Los Angeles, has purchased a controlling interest in stock of the First Commercial bank, Orange. It was leased today. Although the transaction is understood to have been closed several months ago, no announcement of the deal was made until the annual directors' meeting.

It is planned to continue the bank with the same name and the same personnel for the time being, it was said by O. E. Gunther, cashier. Pending the time the new interests assume charge, the bank will continue under the same charter, he said.

Assurance has been given the present bank officials that when the American commercial corporation does assume control, the same personnel will be continued. It is not known when the corporation intends to take over the local institution. L. J. McDonald, executive vice president of the Los Angeles Commercial National Trust and Savings bank, is president of the American commercial corporation.

The annual election of officers and directors of the bank resulted in the re-election of officers and directors. The following officers and directors are as follows: L. A. Stevenson, president; W. G. Hagen, first vice president; A. W. Swayze, second vice president; O. E. Gunther, secretary-cashier; R. R. Rees, W. G. Neely and L. F. Coburn, directors. Ray Brown was re-elected assistant cashier.

Gunther's annual report, covering the year ending December 31, 1926, revealed an increase of $55,702.97 in deposits. The figures show that deposits totaled $321,803.55 this year as compared with $276,100.58 a year ago.

Continued growth of the institution was also reflected in the total resources, which aggregated $555,397.58 on December 31, 1926, as against $481,399.42 for the corresponding date last year, representing an increase of $73,998.16.

Orange officers are now paid on a graduated scale. For the first year of service, the officer receives $120 per month. Each year of service thereafter his wages are increased $5 per month. After the fourth year, the wages remain at $140 per month. The chief of police receives $175 and the night captain receives $150. The motor officer is allowed $25 in addition to his regular wage for the upkeep of the motor.

"I personally would like to see the raise for the officers," said Stevenson, "but I am afraid it cannot be brought about sooner than April 1."

The matter of more pay was discussed at the last meeting of the board with opinion favoring a delay before increasing the salaries.

Funeral arrangements will be made following word from Mr. Mills. The body is at the C. W. Coffey funeral parlors.

ORANGE, Jan. 27.—Musical selections entertained the Yeoman lodge at the regular semi-monthly meeting in Odd Fellows' hall recently. The Hofer orchestra furnished music, while the members of the lodge partook of a dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dillingham sang duets. Kenneth Stowell played violin numbers. D. C. Dillingham gave several horn solos. Everly Kennedy danced, and Mrs. Gladys Llewellyn and children, of Anaheim, gave piano solos.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Daily, of Los Angeles, each gave short talks on the subject of "Yeomanry." Daily, who is state manager, reported that the Yeoman lodge had taken in by the 1926. Daily stated that as 1927 the 30th birthday of the lodge, it has been decided that the goal for 1927 shall be $30,000.00.

EVENING SALUTATION

My heart leaps up when I behold
A rainbow in the sky:
So was it when my life began,
So is it now I am a man,
So be it when I shall grow old,
Or let me die!
The child is father of the man;
And I could wish my days to be
Bound each to each by natural piety.

KNOW YOUR PRODUCTS

Seen' is believin' in the matter of home products, just as it is in many another matter.

At least, the chamber of commerce believes this to be true, for, in addition to telling the people of Santa Ana about things made commercially in Santa Ana, it is showing us.

The purpose of the home products window displays in Santa Ana stores is to show us what's what in Santa Ana-made articles. These articles range from doughnuts to discs and from flowers to furniture.

The time of any Orange county resident who walks along Santa Ana business streets this week and puts in a little time window gazing will be time well spent. Time spent in window gazing is time worth while any day of the week; if it wasn't there wouldn't be so much attention paid to window dressing and there wouldn't be so many people interested in looking at what's on the other side of the glass.

But this week's opportunities in window gazing are different. Never before has there been any such a display upon an extensive scale. We have come to a new realization of the importance of supporting home institutions. In years gone by, we have spent a great deal of effort in endeavoring to attract new industries. We are now concentrating upon aiding the prosperity of the concerns that make things in Santa Ana. Better by far to build up a legitimate enterprise here at home than take a chance on something that comes in from outside of which we know little.

We have read more or less about the products of certain Santa Ana firms. We may not have taken the time to go from plant to plant for a personal inspection, seeking direct information concerning these products. This information has been brought before our eyes, or at least placed so prominently in windows that they can hardly escape our eyes. While many of us passing along the streets will pause casually to inspect some particular display, we ought to do more than that. We ought to make a survey of the windows. Walk along the principal blocks of the city and see for ourselves what Orange county manufacturers are doing to make Orange county prosperous.

THE HAGUE OPIUM AGREEMENT

A number of years before the unsuccessful opium conferences at Geneva in 1924-5, there had been an international meeting at The Hague and an agreement upon a certain procedure. Article 9 of that agreement, to which the United States was a party, pledged the signers "to limit the manufacture, sale and use of morphine, cocaine and their respective salts to medical and legitimate uses only."

The United States has done a good deal toward carrying out that plan. But complete success of its work is made impossible by the failure of other countries to do their part. Our government believes that only a small part of the drugs manufactured here is diverted to illicit channels, yet the situation remains very bad because of the difficulty of keeping out smuggled narcotic drugs, readily obtained for that trade in other countries.

Rather shrewdly, but quite politely, this government addresses a diplomatic note to all the other nations signatory to the Hague Opium convention of 1912, telling them of its own efforts, of the difficulties it has encountered and of the outside influences beyond its control. It asks if the other governments won't also make a frank statement of the existing situation in their countries, telling what they have done and what they are willing to do, even asking suggestions as to whether they think there is anything more that we can do.

The conferences at Geneva failed. Here is a real agreement which was excellent in itself, though never carried out. Why not, says Uncle Sam, make use of this old agreement right now to correct some of the more obvious evils of the narcotic drug trade? Then, maybe, other steps can be taken later on.

CANDY IN GERMANY

The Germans are said to be eating more candy and drinking less liquor. Their beer consumption has fallen off more than 32 per cent and their brandy consumption 50 per cent.

These two facts naturally go together. Sugar is a good substitute for alcohol. Chemically it is almost the same. As a food, it serves the same purpose, merely operating more slowly than alcohol, and can be assimilated in larger quantities than alcohol. Either, used to excess, tends to drive out an appetite for the other.

Sugar seems to have a somewhat similar relation to tobacco, as far as taste is concerned, though that is harder to explain. Candy makes it easier to resist tobacco, and vice versa.

The Germans, however, with all their new liking for candy, are only eating half as much sugar per capita as Americans. Which may be just as well for them. Physicians say excessive use of sugar is harmful because of the serious digestive and organic disturbances that it may produce.

TWICE AS MANY BOOKS

"I feel safe in prophesying," says the retiring president of the National Association of Book Publishers, "that within the next 10 years American publishers will distribute to our people more than twice as many books as we now distribute; that our export trade in books will quadruple; that in manufacture, our American-made books will rival the best made books of all countries."

The reading public might be safer if his prophecy turned out a "flop." Twice as many books as the publishers are now pouring over our innocent heads looks alarming. It is all many of us can do to keep up with the current output of books. We will have to learn to read twice as rapidly as we do now, and perhaps have book racks built onto our dining room tables and into our bath tubs so that we can read all the time.

It's obvious, too, that there won't be much time left over for more thinking. Unless, of course, somebody discovers the great truth that it isn't necessary to keep up with the whole output, and that ostracism from polite society doesn't inevitably follow failure to read all the current best sellers.

Important News This

Riverside Enterprise
The announcement in yesterday's Enterprise that Senator Swing has introduced in the State legislature a bill calling for the expenditure of millions of dollars on Santa Ana river dams and diversion works is the most important news story, locally, that has appeared in a Riverside newspaper in recent years.

It means that at last there is an excellent prospect of obtaining adequate state financial aid for the proper conservation of waters of the Santa Ana. It indicates that after many years of heart-breaking efforts by a little band of conservationists and of niggardly appropriations, the development of the river is likely to be undertaken on a scale commensurate with the territory it serves.

More than 50 per cent of the population of the state dwells in the Southland. In this region lies 20 per cent of the tillable land of California, yet it has only one per cent of the water that falls in this great state. Hence the increasing importance of irrigation. In this vast district south of the Tehachapi one of the most important of the few streams is the Santa Ana river. Dependent upon its silvery waters for irrigation are the three famous counties of Riverside, Orange and San Bernardino. Population of this trio has increased at a marvelous rate. And with the gain in the number of residents has come a corresponding development of horticulture and agriculture. Thus the demand for water has continuously increased. But the supply is little greater now than it was a score of years ago. Of recent years, because of a succession of dry years and as the result of heavier use of water, the water levels have steadily fallen.

The situation is such that every drop of water—the very life blood of these rich agricultural counties—must be conserved. It is for that purpose that Senator Swing has introduced his bill at Sacramento.

Through the efforts of Francis Cuttle of Riverside and other farseeing enthusiasts, who, like himself have recognized the situation, check dams and diversion works have been constructed. But it has been hard work obtaining money, and there never have been funds enough to permit of proceeding on an adequate scale.

Should the state legislature and the governor see fit to appropriate the money for Santa Ana river development a series of engineering projects will be carried to completion that will insure practically every drop of rain that falls in the Santa Ana river district being utilized for irrigation. The rain that runs off the precipitous hills in the sudden showers of winter will be caught by dams. The rushing mountain streams that feed the Santa Ana will be spread so that the water will percolate into the acreage at the river's sources. And in order that the water that falls during the few brief winter months may be conserved to the best advantage a huge dam will be constructed at Prado, just below Corona.

Riverside ought to marshal every influence it possesses to aid this bill of Senator Swing's. Its future prosperity is dependent upon water. When Southern California reaches the limit of its water supply its growth will automatically be checked. Riverside has been fortunate in the past, but its needs are increasing and it must have an eye to the future. No measure will be presented at this session of the state legislature that can possibly be as important to Riverside as the Swing Santa Ana river development bill.

Editorial Shorts

Senator Allen of Los Angeles proposes a bill to advance the date of the primaries from the last Tuesday in August to the third Tuesday in September. That change would be welcomed in Southern California. Our vacation period in this section does not end until about the middle of September; the schools as a rule re-open the second or third Monday in September and that date determines in many cases the time when family vacations end. In Southern California without doubt a larger vote would be polled the third Tuesday in September than the last Tuesday in August; and plenty of time is left after that date before the November election for state wide or county campaigns.—Riverside Press.

WORRY IS A DISORDER OF MENTAL SYSTEM
So much has been written regarding the care of the child mind that the adult has been somewhat neglected. The foundation for a sound nervous system should, of course, be laid in childhood, but continued assaults on the mental state will undermine the calm demeanor of anyone.

A man whom worry constantly nags or a woman with a nervous and irritable personality can no more consider themselves in good health than if they had infected tonsils, a cold in the head or bunions. Sometimes disorders of physical states will produce irritations which make the threshold of nervous excitement far lower.

It is particularly important to face every mental situation squarely. If one gets into the habit of dodging the uncomfortable facts of life, mental ill health lies in wait just around the corner. Men and women should learn the habit of facing things as they really are and handle the situations as they exist.

The psychologists have dignified the process of avoiding reality by the term "rationalization," which means the seeking of a plausible but basically false justification for some particular attitude on a certain occasion.

Above all things, persons should think with their intelligence instead of with their emotions. When one jumps at conclusions and forms prejudices without real knowledge, he is likely to have distorted judgment.

The person who tries to avoid the realities of life also resorts not infrequently to day-dreaming and fantasies. When one becomes a slave of this temptation to compensate himself for the disappointments of daily life, he should take a walk, practice a daily dozen, hunt up a friend and argue about the League of Nations, or even listen to the radio. Indeed, anything should be done to divert attention from turning inward upon one's self.

This Is Getting Serious

Beware of Danger

By Francis Bacon

There is no other way but to meditate and ruminate well upon the effects of anger—how it troubles man's life; and the best time to do this is to look back upon anger when the fit is thoroughly over.

Seneca saith well, "that anger is like rain, which breaks itself upon that it falls." The Scripture exhorteth us "to possess our souls in patience;" whosoever is out of patience is out of possession of his soul. . . .

Anger is certainly a kind of baseness; as it appears well in the weakness of those whose subjects in whom it reigns—children, women, old folks, sick folks.

Only men must beware that they carry their anger rather with scorn than with fear; so that they may seem rather to be above the injury than below it; which is a thing easily done, if a man will give law to himself in it. . . .

To contain anger from mischief, though it take hold of a man, there be two things whereof you must have special caution; the one of extreme bitterness of words, especially if they be aculeate and proper; for "commona maledicta" are nothing so much; and again that in anger a man reveal no secrets; for that makes him not fit for society; the other, that you do not peremptorily break off in any business in a fit of anger; but howsoever you show bitterness, do not act anything that is not revocable.

Worth While Verse

A DAY TO SPARE

I'd like to catch a bit of time,
And keep it in a box;
How nice to have a day to spare—
Like hankies, or socks!
Then when they said, "It's getting late
And bed's the place for you,"
I'd look inside my little box
And get an hour or two.

This time, of course, would be all mine,
My very, very own;
A sort of extra bit of day
Made just for me alone.
For me to spend just how I liked—
Entirely my affair;
In fact, for every one but me,
The hours would not be there.

You know how nice it is to feel
You've got within a tin
A special cake—the birthday kind—
To eat when friends come in.
Well, that's what I would do with time—
I'd hide it out of view;
But now and then I'd give a slice
To people such as you.

But cakes, I know, get less and less
Each time you eat a slice,
Until at last there's not a crumb
Of what was once so nice.
Suppose my time behaved like that,
And some day reached an end;
Why, then, I'd run across the road
And borrow from a friend.

—Edith L. Elias in Chamber's Journal, London.

Your Income Tax

This is one of a series of articles, based on the revenue act of 1926, written by the U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue.

No. 10

Jan. 27.—With a certain proviso, compensation paid by a State or "political subdivision thereof," such as a county or city, to its officers and employees is not taxable income. The proviso is that the services of such officers and employees must be rendered in connection with the "essential governmental functions of the State or political subdivision," as distinguished from the "proprietary functions." The salaries of the governor of a State, mayor of a city, councilman, board of aldermen, public-school teachers, policemen and firemen are not taxable. But the compensation received by employees of waterworks owned and operated by a municipality, or of a municipally owned and operated street railway is taxable, for the reason that they are engaged in the activities of a State which are not governmental.

Fees for special services to a State are taxable, as for example, compensation paid architects and builders for planning and erecting a State capitol, courthouse, or other State or municipal buildings. An officer or employee of a State, for the purpose of the income tax law, is one whose services are continuous, and not occasional or temporary.

In general, the salaries of Federal officers and employees are subject to the income tax. The salaries paid Federal judges are not

Nation Retains Its Faith

Kansas City Star

The close of the year has brought encouraging reports about the expansion of the country's trade and commerce, about the growth of business and the assurance of continued prosperity. But the progress of America has not related simply to material things. For along with the other reports comes evidence of the country's concern with religion, together with an assurance of a steady growth in church membership.

It has been widely believed that the American people have departed to a dangerous degree from the "faith of the forefathers," but that such has not been the case a religious leader undertakes to show in connection with the religious questionnaire which recently was given wide distribution through The Star and scores of other newspapers in all parts of the United States.

In declaring that a majority of the American people retain the religious position if not the identical form of belief of the founders of the country, the Rev. Charles Steidle, chairman of the church advertising department of the International Advertising association, holds that "even on a statistical basis, religion is seen to be making steady progress." Aside from the evidence furnished by the recent questionnaire survey, which the church advertising department sponsored, these figures are cited:

In 1900, the earliest date at which statistics are available, membership of Protestant churches of the country was only 7 per cent of the population. A century later it had increased to 24 per cent and now is 28 per cent. In the Catholic church and among other religious bodies there has been a similar gain, so that today the total church membership is 43 per cent of the population. With certain legitimate additions, including children not entitled, on account of age, to membership in some churches, Mr. Steidle thinks the percentage of church members might be increased to 51 or more than one-half the country's population.

So much for figures, which may be given such importance as the individual is inclined to attach to them. But the recent survey itself, while not conclusive because it did not bring out the views of any considerable numbers, was in general reassuring. Mr. Steidle re-

God's Flowers

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

TO the parents who keenly feel the racial question and to those parents who scarcely know what they ought to think about the contact of their child with children of other races in our public schools, I would like to say this. Just because we are kind and considerate to others is no sign we need be intimate. Since the public school system is organized as it is we must remember that our children are going to meet many children of their own color which we may consider undesirable. Shall we ignore this just because they are the same color? It would seem the wise thing would be to teach the child to discern those qualities which are worth while in others and admire these; to discount insincerity and sham, and to abhor dishonesty and weakness. Teach him that kindness and consideration of others is never amiss and that at no time can we afford to be cruel to folks any more than to animals.

THERE'S a little Colored girl right in my school,
And a quaintish Chinese boy sits in my row,
And they seemed so very queer with colored skin
That I asked my Daddy Man, "Why are they so?"

"Son," he said, "Not every flower's white,
Some are pink, and some are blue, and others flame,
Takes all kinds to make a garden that is fair,
But the red and blue are flowers all the same."

"Let's pretend," he said, "God's garden is the world,
Where He moves among His flower folk each day.
Don't you 'spose He planned that some are colored flowers

'Cause He thinks they fit His garden best that way?"
